HUMPHREY WITHDRAWS

Decisive Win For Kennedy

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Senator John F. Kennedy took a giant stride today toward the Democratic nomination for president of the United States with a smashing victory in the West Virginia primary election.

The Massachusetts contender not only rolled over Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota but also knocked him out of the presidential race completely.

At 2:08 a.m. Humphrey conceded. Minutes later he issued a statement in which he said: "I am no longer a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination."

'Vote on Issue, Not Prejudice'

"I had no doubt," he said, "that you would cast your vote on the basis of the issues and not on any religious prejudice."

Kennedy jumped ahead at the start and steadily increased his margin.

With 2,059 of the 2,750 polls reporting, Kennedy had 173,113 votes and Humphrey 108,893.

The Kennedy victory wasn't entirely unexpected, but the size of it certainly was.

West Virginia Delegates Not Tied

Although the victory meant a lot to Kennedy—it should be a powerful argument to advance against the theory that no Catholic can be elected as an American president—it didn't guarantee him a single extra delegate to the party's convention in July.

This was strictly a popularity contest. The West Virginia delegates who will cast 25 votes at the Democratic convention in July are free to do as they please. In some other states, convention delegates are bound to vote on the first ballot at the convention for the primary winner.

New Blast by Louw Widens Split in PMs

LONDON (CP)—Eric Louw, South Africa's external affairs minister, took the offensive against critics of his country's racial policies Tuesday night and virtually ended any hope that the Commonwealth prime ministers can heal their open split over apartheid before their conference ends on Friday.

Speaking outside the conference chamber at a dinner of London's South Africa Club, Louw complained that "leftist elements" are fomenting an anti-South African campaign.

Dollar Continues Drop at New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The value of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. currency today fell to the lowest level in more than a year.

Foreign exchange dealers quoted it at $1.02 13/16 in U.S. currency, down 13/64 from Tuesday's close of $1.03 1/4.

2 RED SPIES CAUGHT BY SWISS

BERN, Switzerland (Reuters)—Two officials of the Soviet embassy in Bern have been ordered "to leave Switzerland immediately" for spying, the Swiss government announced today.

The announcement said the two Russians were arrested in Zurich Tuesday night as they were talking to an agent in the pay of the Soviet espionage service.

They were understood to have received from the agent plans of Swiss army radar establishments and information on the organization of the Swiss army, as well as plans on rocket bases in West Germany.

It is understood the agent also was arrested through the announcement did not specify this.

Wengren Railroad 'Easy Job'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The engineer who supervised surveying of the Wenner-Gren railway route in northern British Columbia says the route is feasible and without excessive grades and the railway can be built without excessive capital or maintenance costs.

"After nearly three years of adverse and questionable comments—political, economical and strategic—the construction of the railway is about to begin," H. H. Minshall told the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. Tuesday night.

With his associate H. L. Smith, Mr. Minshall detailed the full survey of the route. They said the survey entailed 1,500 miles of aerial reconnaissance and 340,000 acres of land were mapped by aerial photography.

PEEKED AT Y.T.

"With our last survey camp in B.C. on the shore of Gladys Lake, just 15 miles from the B.C.-Yukon border," Mr. Minshall said, "we took a peek into the Yukon as far as Fort Selkirk, to satisfy ourselves that it was quite feasible to run the proposed line through Whitehorse to join the route proposed by the U.S. Army in 1942."

He said a major crossing of the Skeena River would be "surprisingly simple" and for economic reasons it might be necessary for the railway to cross and re-cross the Nass River.

The railway proposal was part of an agreement Wenner-Gren interests reached with the B.C. government about three years ago to open northern B.C. to development. Under the agreement, construction is to start by the end of June. A company named Pacific Northern Railway has been set up to undertake the proposed project.

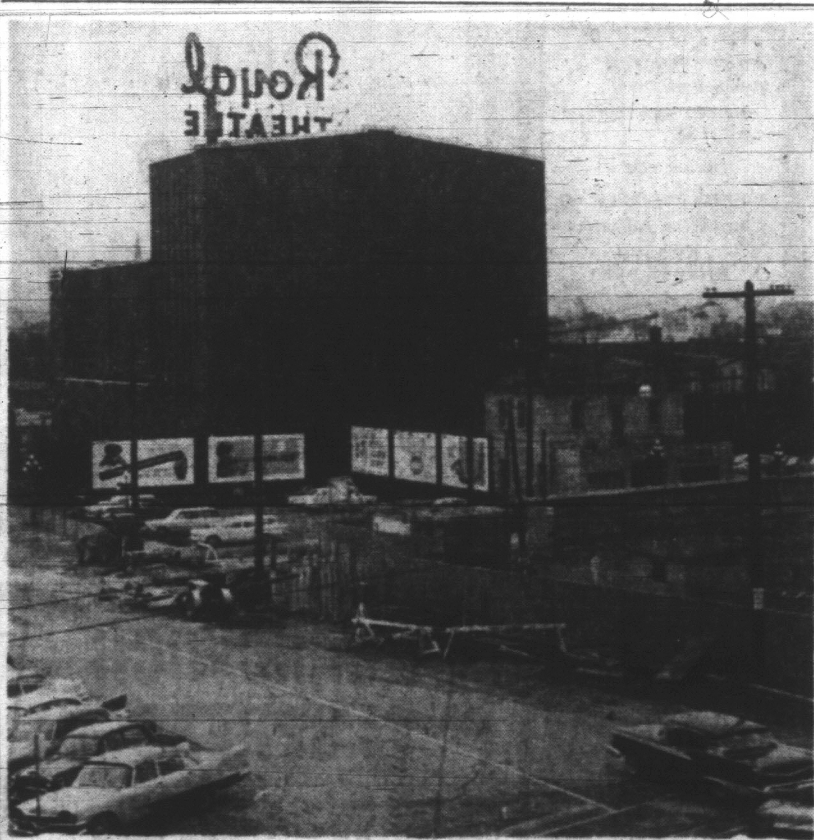

(In Victoria today the registrar of companies office said the Pacific Northern Railway Company had not yet been incorporated under the B.C. Companies Act.)

Sentence Commuted

OTTAWA (UPI)—The federal cabinet today spared the life of John Harford, 19, who was convicted two months ago of the murder of a Trans-Canada Air Lines employee. He will serve a life sentence.

Fishboat Overdue

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ships and ports along the B.C. coast have been asked to watch for the 32-foot troller Chrisandra overdue on a fishing trip to Powell River with Ross Garrow of Vancouver aboard.

CATHEDRAL HILL DEVELOPMENT?

$300,000 Sale Price Indicated for Theatre

The Royal Theatre at 1000 Broughton and Blanshard, Victoria's major cultural activities, valued at more than $1,000,000, has been offered for sale to the city for use as a civic auditorium.

Austin Curtis, chairman of the city's auditorium committee, disclosed today that Famous Players of Canada has offered to sell the 48-year-old edifice used for all of Greater Victoria's major cultural activities. Sale price was not disclosed, but it was indicated at the committee meeting the building might sell for less than half its value.

That would place the sale price between $300,000 and $400,000.

Floods Isolate Ontario Families

Times News Services

TIMMINS, Ont.—A wall of water and logs today bore down toward the almost-deserted, flood-menaced community of Mount Joy in northern Ontario.

Officials said the Ontario department of lands and forests told them the Muskies Lake dam had burst. Only about 100 of the township's normal 1,900 population were left.

The Muskies dam, which holds back water from a long chain of lakes is 42 miles upstream from Timmins on the Mattagami River.

Officials said the new flood crest could hit Mount Joy late tonight or early Thursday.

Red Cross officials declared the region a disaster area. Food vouchers worth $5,000 were distributed to the flood victims who set up temporary homes in halls in Timmins.

Floodwaters cut off 500 families in the west end of Timmins. These families, mostly on farms, will have to depend on boats for their supplies during the next few days.

realtors, agents for the company, said no price has been fixed as yet.)

The sale offer was disclosed by Mr. Curtis as the committee sat down to discuss plans for the construction of a $2,000,000 civic auditorium.

STUDY PROPOSAL

It decided to see if the building would be satisfactory as a civic auditorium before making any recommendations to city council.

Constructed in 1912-13 as the Victoria Opera House, the Royal Theatre was described by Roderick Clack, city architect, in a report as in "exceptionally good condition."

"An analysis of the architectural drawings shows a building of Class A construction and a general inspection of the premises indicates that it has been maintained throughout," he said.

He noted that the company has spent $150,000 in the past 12 years on the interior of the building and renovations.

With regard to live productions, he said, the theatre has complete facilities.

Still Incensed Over Spy Plan

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev said today the spy plane incident had changed his estimate of President Eisenhower and they will discuss in Paris whether the American leader should come to Moscow as planned.

(At his Washington press conference this morning held before the Khrushchev interview, President Eisenhower said there had been no change in his plans to visit Russia. Last week, however, he had dropped the casual remark: "if I visit Russia" as if to indicate that there was some doubt.)

Khrushchev made his statement as he stood on a wicker chair talking to correspondents amidst the wreckage of the plane he says was shot down May 1, east of the Urals.

One of the reporters asked him point blank: "Do you want Eisenhower to come here in view of the plane incident?"

"What do you want me to say?" Khrushchev replied. "You get in to my place here and reply for me."

EXCHANGE VIEWS

An American correspondent then asked whether, in view of his changed attitude toward Eisenhower, he would want him to postpone the visit to Russia, scheduled for June 10.

"I would not like to comment," the premier said. "We can exchange views with the president on that in Paris."

He announced he is leaving Saturday for the summit conference in Paris opening May 16.

Khrushchev was asked: "Does this spy plane incident change your estimate of Eisenhower?"

"It does, of course," he replied.

"I was not aware of the fact that the plan was not the caprice of an individual officer... I was horrified to learn that the president had approved the plan of these flights."

Khrushchev said the flight had been approved by Allen Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, under the direction of the President.

DIFFICULT TO REPLY

"Don't expect me after that to say what nice people these are."

Khrushchev also said on whether he wanted Eisenhower to come to Moscow: "It is difficult to reply. You know my friendly attitude toward the President. My hopes have not been justified. I am a human being. I have feelings."

"The people of Russia are open-hearted. Can I urge the Russian people to greet him as a dear guest? The Russian people would say I was mad to welcome a man who sends spy planes over here like that."

REDS REFUSE

Ike Backs 'Open Sky' Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he will renew at next week's summit meeting his proposal that Russia and the United States open their skies to flights by inspection planes.

Defending secret U.S. spy flights over the Soviet Union, the President said this country must not have another Pearl Harbor.

Eisenhower read to a press conference a statement on the furor over Russia's claim to have downed an American U-2 spy plane from 60,000 feet May 1. He expressed doubt the plane was in fact shot down in the fashion the Soviets said it was.

He recalled that at the 1955 Geneva summit conference he proposed an "open skies" policy which would permit nations to make flights which might reveal any preparations for attack.

PROPOSAL REJECTED
Russia rejected this proposal in 1955.

"I shall bring it up again at Paris," Eisenhower said.

(In Moscow today, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko again rejected the open skies proposal, which he charged was made in the interests of American military intelligence.)

Eisenhower said he still is hopeful that the Paris summit meeting starting Monday will accomplish some good and help ease international tensions.

REFERS TO PHOTOS

Asked to elaborate on doubts about the U-2 incident, Eisenhower referred to photographs which the Russians said showed the wreckage of the plane.

The U.S. government believes, he said, that the pictures are not photographs of the U-2 aircraft.

Eisenhower was reminded that he has said many times he would not go to a summit conference under a Soviet threat or ultimatum. A reporter noted that the Soviet government on Tuesday threatened to retaliate against the United States if it continued to send spy planes over Russia.

Asked whether he regarded that as a threat in the category he had mentioned, Eisenhower replied that he did not.

CANADA'S ROLE IN DEFENCE

Fourth of a Series

By TOM GOULD

OTTAWA—Fortunately for the Canadian taxpayer, the U.S. is not saddled with military secrecy for secrecy's sake. The military and the administration in Washington have to justify every dollar of expenditure.

For several years now, the House subcommittee on military appropriations has been casting a jaundiced eye at the Bomarc program. The missile was called a billion dollar boondoggle, a flop, a failure. And a few weeks ago, the subcommittee finally gave it the axe.

No one in Washington believes it will ever be restored. Defence Minister Pearkes, who for some reason fell overboard with praise of the Bomarc as the months went by, thinks the subcommittee will be overruled by the U.S. Senate. He stands alone on this one.

Breach of Pact

He has made it very clear Canada will consider cancellation of the Bomarc program as the breach of a sacred agreement between the two nations. And until the Bomarc slash finally winds its way through the hazardous process of the U.S. Congress, he has decided to keep spending money on the holes the Canadian defence department is digging at Mont Laurier, Quebec, and North Bay, Ont.

Mr. Pearkes claims he is waiting to be "informed" what Washington intends doing. Not "consulted," you will notice, just informed.

The ironical touch to the current mess is that the same U.S. subcommittee recommended that some of the money destined for the Bomarc be spent on more interceptors: the F-106, one of the aircraft inferior to the Arrow!

While Mr. Pearkes waits to be convinced, it is interesting to peer into the future. With the Bomarc gone, what is left of joint continental air defence?

Pitiful Effort

Canada's contribution is pitiful. A few squadrons of aircraft even Mr. Pearkes concedes are too old for modern warfare (although he claims they are still "airworthy" for what that is worth), some radar stations, a small defence research establishment.

On the U.S. side of the border, too far south to provide any protection to Canadians, a variety of interceptors, many of them sub-sonic, point at SAVANNAH, Ga.—You can smile again, podnuhs. It wasn't Wyatt Earp who shot that man by accident in Savannah.

An official police report of the incident last weekend should go far toward restoring the faith of millions of children and middle-aged businessmen who follow the exploits of Hugh O'Brian weekly on television.

They had suffered after the news circulated that O'Brian had wounded a member of his travelling troupe accidentally. It just couldn't be—Marshal Earp just does not miss his target, and he doesn't hit one unless he's shooting at it.

Savannah police officially declared Tuesday: That's right, Detective Sgt. J. J. Dillon said Frisco Estes, 24, was hit in the chest and arm by bird shot from a pistol fired by William Daniel Woland, of Burbank, Calif. Both are members of the O'Brian show.

Detectives quoted Woland as saying he was supposed to fire blanks as part of the act and that he did not know how a live shell got mixed in with the blanks. They arrested Woland, but he was released on request of O'Brian.

CHICAGO—Russell Kipkowski, anti-cruelty society agent, had his work cut out for him Tuesday when he brought a St. Bernard dog to the agency shelter here. Kipkowski weighs 140 pounds, the dog 165.

CHICAGO—Coffee drinkers and their prized institution, the coffee break, were cooled off a bit Tuesday. The 6,800-man Chicago Journeymen Plumbers Union has negotiated a contract with a contractors' group which specifically bans coffee breaks. A spokesman said it was the first such labor contract in the United States.

NEWLY-NOMINATED OAK BAY LIBERAL CANDIDATE POSES QUESTION

Have Bennett, Gundy Had Falling-Out?

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Political Reporter

Possibility of a falling-out among Premier W. A. C. Bennett and principals of the Peace River power project was suggested Tuesday by the Liberals' newest provincial candidate.

Lawyer Alan B. Macfarlane, who was unanimously approved as Liberal candidate for the Oak Bay seat vacant after the death of MLA P. Archie Gibbs, told his nominating convention:

"The remarkable Peace River power give-away has been and still is a mystery to everyone."

UNDER CARPET?

"Has Premier Bennett fallen out with Gunderson and Mainwaring, have these gentlemen broken their long separate engagement, or has the whole matter been swept under the carpet until Mr. Bennett can get his election over with?"

Former B.C. finance minister Einar Gunderson, now a director of Peace River Power Development Co., and W. C. Mainwaring, president of the company, were members of the premier's "five-ring circus," Mr. Macfarlane said. The other two members were Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Axel Wenner-Gren.

Mr. Macfarlane said after the convention:

"It seems extremely strange that after the Peace project developed at such a fast pace there suddenly should be announced that nothing further would be done until the autumn."

WHY?

He wondered why everything "should grind to halt with the general suggestion that an election would be held first."

"Whatever the answer," said the Oak Bay candidate, "it is clear to me the legislature has been given no chance to govern a situation which the people expect should be taken care of by their elected representatives."

'SELF-CHOSEN FEW'

"This is typical of government by the self-chosen few," Provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault, a guest speaker at the convention in Oak Bay municipal hall, said he had just returned from a tour of the Peace River country and, contrary to his expectation of a "tough time," the party was "doing very well there."

"The next election is going to be very tough," said Mr. Perrault.

CLEAN HOUSE

"We need a revival of moral principle in our province. It is time to clean house."

There had been too much political indifference displayed by the public. What was needed was some "cold anger and high ideals."

Mr. Perrault predicted Oak Bay would be the starting point whether in by-election or general election—of "a Liberal revival in B.C. I think we stand an extremely good chance of becoming the official opposition—though of course it would be excellent to be the government."

The great election question mark brought the charge from Mr. Macfarlane that the government was not keeping the public informed of matters which should be public information.

Nomination of Mr. Macfarlane, who lives at 1906 St. Ann and is the son of Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane, was made by Hon. Robert W. Mayhew, one-time federal fisheries minister and later Canadian ambassador to Japan. He was seconded by Mrs. Gibbs, widow of the late MLA.

U-2 Planes On Flights Over Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—American aircraft of the type that was shot down over Russia May 1 have made flights over Canadian territory—but not for the purpose of spying on the Soviet Union, Defence Minister Peckes said in a statement Tuesday night.

He said that American U-2s have flown over Canada on weather missions. None had violated Soviet air space.

No U-2 plane which might have flown spy missions over Communist territory had operated from any Canadian base.

Mr. Peckes' statement was in line with one made in the Commons Monday by External Affairs Minister Green that Canada was unaware the U.S. was flying reconnaissance missions across Soviet borders at all.

WASHINGTON INFORMED

Mr. Green assured the House Tuesday that Canadian anxiety about the danger of such missions to world peace had been made clear to Washington.

He also described as "wild speculation" press reports that American spy flights over Russia will continue.

Mr. Peckes told the House that from time to time unknown planes have been spotted by the DEW radar line in the Canadian Arctic. It had never been possible to confirm that the unknowns were Soviet planes.

Long Trip by Liner

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 24,000-ton Orient and Pacific liner Chusan is scheduled to arrive here Thursday on one of the longest passenger voyages in history—more than 45,000 miles. The liner left London March 24 following a refit. Before she returns she will have been at sea for more than three months, with the voyage including three trans-Pacific crossings between the Orient and North America and trips through both the Suez and Panama Canals.

Senate Sets Up Unemployment Probe

General approval was expressed as the Senate moved to set up a committee to search out cures for unemployment.

But the government took some digs for what Liberals termed its reluctance to face the situation and was asked not to limit the investigation's scope.

Senator Walter Aseltine, government leader, moved the motion to establish the 22-member committee. It is to study "manpower requirements and utilization in Canada with the object of exploring the possibilities of maintaining and extending a high level of employment."

 The federal health department has no control over cigarette advertising, the estimates committee was told.

George C. Fairfield (PC-Portage-Neepawa) asked whether the department is doing anything about the "damaging" done by advertising for particular cigarettes.

Dr. C. A. Morrell, director of the department's food and drug administration, said cigarettes cannot be classified as food, drugs or medicine under the terms of the Food and Drugs Act.

 Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton said the Canadian and U.S. governments are not involved in a proposed July conference of Alaska, the Yukon and British Columbia on economic affairs.

 The Commons election committee—by the narrowest of margins—decided that sheriffs and crown attorneys should not be federal election candidates without first resigning their jobs.

Kirby Fund Closes; Total at $14,500

A public fund for the widow of a Saanich policeman killed on duty officially closed at $14,500 Tuesday.

The figure was expected to rise even higher however, as last-minute donations continue to dribble in at Saanich police office, Royal Oak.

Unkindest Cut of All

A REMARKABLE EDITORIAL in The Toronto Globe and Mail is one of many indications that the Canadian defence debate has cut straight across the party lines of politics.

This leading Conservative newspaper, in the Diefenbaker Government's stronghold of Ontario, says that "the Canadian people, we suspect, are growing a little weary of defence Minister George Pearkes' explanations which do not explain. . . . He still hopes against hope, apparently, that there will be a reconsideration and that the Bomarc will be spared."

This is unlikely, The Globe and Mail thinks, but anyway there are "two unanswerable arguments against equipping the armed forces with the Bomarc. First, it provides no protection whatever against ballistic missiles, which are becoming the major threat to this continent. Second, tests have shown that it is inadequate and unreliable against the manned bombers it was designed to bring down. It is simply not an efficient weapon."

Coming from the great Conservative organ of Toronto, the next sentences are particularly cruel to Mr. Pearkes: "The minister's statements cannot conceal the fact that his department has committed a colossal blunder. It has tied Canada's defence wholly to the Bomarc, scrapping in the process the promising, Canadian-built Arrow fighter, on which $400 million had already been spent. Now the Bomarc has proved a dud. We are left with no protection against bomber attack, except for a few squadrons of admittedly obsolete CF-100s. Against missiles, of course, we have no protection at all. Hundreds of millions of dollars spent on air defence have been wasted."

Where, asks The Globe and Mail, do we go from here? It notes with approval that the American and Canadian defence ministers will meet shortly to consider these problems but, somewhat brutally, it asks: "Should the present minister of national defence represent Canada at this meeting? Without minimizing Mr. Pearkes' distinguished services to Canada in the past, it must be admitted that he has been a disappointment in his current post."

In its indictment of Mr. Pearkes, the Globe and Mail says that under his regime the defence efforts of Canada and the United States have been more closely interlocked than ever before. "Yet he has failed," the newspaper adds, "to maintain adequate liaison with Washington. Canadians can hardly forget the humiliating scene in the House of Commons last month when he was taken completely by surprise by the news of the first Bomarc cutback. In both co-ordination and communication he seems unable to keep pace with the complex and rapidly changing problems of the jet and missile age."

The Globe and Mail concludes that "Canadian military policy is now approaching a crossroads. Decisions must be taken which may determine the independence or even the survival of this nation. It is surely time for a more dynamic leadership in the department of national defence."

All this, from the Government's chief newspaper supporter in Ontario, is very hard on Mr. Pearkes, whom we all know in Victoria as a very fine man. But the crisis in Canadian defence is bigger than any man. It seems to be too big for the whole Government.

The Pressure Play

JAPANESE GOODS NOW ENTER Canada in the technical category of "most favored nation" imports and comprise part of our trade arrangements under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. But Japan might well have reason to believe it is the least most favored nation, since the Canadian Government consistently dodges its responsibilities under GATT.

Canada does not infringe the agreement by hiking up the tariffs on Japanese goods, or by imposing quotas on imports from that country, or by otherwise restricting trade through public rulings by the Tariff Board. We practise exclusion of Japan's goods in a much more adroit—if less admirable—manner.

We hold private talks with Japanese representatives and persuade them to impose "voluntary" quotas on their exports to Canada. In this way GATT is circumvented, the Conservative Government's protective policy is enforced and the appearance is left—except in Japanese minds—that Canada is happy to trade in every way with its trans-Pacific neighbor.

This practice is questionable when our trade figures with Japan show that we export to that country much more goods than we import. It is particularly questionable when we know that unless Japan can sell goods to us and obtain Canadian credits it will be unable to buy from us—unable to pay for the wheat and other products we are anxious to sell in larger quantities.

Obviously Mr. Diefenbaker's restrictive policy, designed to help Canadian textile and other manufacturers in the domestic market must, in the long run, be at the expense of Canadian producers who wish to export their goods. And while Japanese businessmen may go along with a situation they are powerless to alter, there can be little doubt that they are far from happy with the present arrangements.

Scholarships With a Purpose

THE PLAN OF THE BANK OF Montreal to establish Canada Centennial Scholarships is an imaginative and far-seeing one and should make a significant contribution to higher education in this country.

The program is strongly competitive, designed to bring out the best in outstanding students, and the rewards are sufficiently large to encourage participation.

Briefly, the plan offers $750 scholarships to fifty Canadian students entering university next fall, in pure science or in arts. By elimination each year, sixteen of these will be supported to graduation, their money awards increasing to $1,500. Eight of these will be supported through graduate study at $3,000 a year for three years. The two most promising students—one in pure science and one in the humanities or social sciences—will then receive $5,000 each to pursue their studies for a further year. The final award will be open to any of the original fifty starters.

The culmination of the scholarships comes in Canada's centennial year, 1967, which will also mark the 150th anniversary of the Bank of Montreal. The plan is on a generous basis and ingeniously designed to give maximum assistance while selecting the top student in each group. It will be widely recognized as an inspiration to scholarship and a most worthy centennial observation.

An 84-Day Dive

WHATEVER ITS WARTIME significance may be, the circumnavigation of the globe by the United States atomic submarine Triton is a scientific and technical feat of great importance, and merits the congratulations of all who view with wonder the rapid achievements of our modern era.

On only two occasions during its 84-day voyage did the submarine come even partially to the surface—once for the emergency transfer of a petty officer taken ill, and once for a ceremony off the coast of Spain to commemorate the voyage of Ferdinand Magellan whose original route the vessel followed.

That fact itself indicates a great many marvels in navigation, propulsion, air conservation, waste disposal and other concomitants of life in close confinement aboard an undersea ship.

The human element, too, must be considered. This was the sort of existence under which nerves fray and morale withers. That the officers and crew came through in apparently excellent condition, both physically and mentally, speaks well for their choice for this history-making voyage.

PIONEER'S EYE VIEW

How Do We Look From Away Out There?

JODRELL BANK, England (AP)—The U.S. Pioneer V space rocket sent scientific data to earth Sunday from 8,000,000 miles out in space. It was the longest-ranging conversation in history.

HELLO, Earth. Hello, Earth. Pioneer V out here. I've just reached the 8,000,000-mile mark and wanted to check in with some information. Have to conserve my battery so I'll make it brief. Everything's gone well. Haven't hit anything but very fine dust and a few gas clouds, and I'm right on schedule as you predicted. I've relayed all the scientific data in code, and you'll have it by now—the radiation counts, the charged particle studies, the magnetic field notes and so on. But there's a few things I'd like to add before I close down until the next broadcast. After all, this is the farthest message you or any other human has ever received and I think I can speak with a little authority.

The New Look
Well, I've been thinking things over a bit as I whirled along. I've been picking up all the happenings on earth since I left, and I must say that from out here you get a whole new look at things. Even from a few hundred thousand miles out I began to get a different perspective on Earth's problems. Upset me quite a bit for a while, but I'm getting used to the idea now. And I like it.

Well, right off, gentlemen, let me tell you this. You're all worrying about the wrong things. Boy, if you could only see how some of your biggest problems look from out here. You'd have to laugh, you really would.

Take all this kaffuffle about the American spy plane for a starter. Words, words, words. They've been pouring up to my antenna here and you'd think it was the end of the world.

Out in the cold clarity of space, Mr. Khrushchev's indignation at being spied on is the funniest thing in creation. When you think of the Ottawa spy ring and the Washington spy ring, and all the other Russian cases that hit the news, plus many more you never heard of—well, it's like a comic strip. And then all the fuss about this particular plane, when they've been running almost on schedule for years.

Double-Talk

Of course it's just a build-up for the summit meeting. But think of the summit itself—all the bluff and bluster, saying one thing and thinking something else—nobody really looking for a solution because they're happier the way things are—I tell you it shows up pretty plain from out here.

And all the squabbles about who owns this strip of land or that, and who operates or uses the Suez Canal, and how to work out an agreement to control space, and which country can wipe out the others the most efficiently, and what kind of arms you'll buy when none will be much good anyway, and which party you elect when they aren't going to affect things much at the best of it, and how you can sell the most to other countries without buying anything back, and how much ocean each country can claim for its own, and how you can grow more food when you've got too much already, and how to help the starving peoples without encouraging them too much to keep on living, and how to get ahead of the other fellow even if it kills you, and how to be richer even if it beggars you, and how to work less but get more, and how you can be happy doing things you don't like if you just do enough of them, and . . . well, gentlemen, all your pressing problems—if you could just see them from out here even for a moment!

Wasted Effort

How pathetically foolish and unimportant they all seem. And all that lovely little shimmering green globe to enjoy if you really wanted to! Well, I'm not going to say any more or tell you what to do. You've been told that dozens of times by people who had the far-out view and it didn't have any effect. So I'm going to close down now and save my battery. But there's just one thing before I go.

Are you there, Jodrell Bank? Say, is there any way you might be able to fix my orbit a bit so that I don't pass too close to the Earth on the return swing? Nothing personal, you understand, and actually I hate to bring it up. But now that I've cut direct connections with the planet I find I prefer it.

I don't want to hurt your feelings, but—well, Earth today isn't the sort of place you want to return to, once you've had a good look at it in the proper perspective. I hope you will understand. So how about it, eh? Just a little swerve toward Arcturus ought to do it—not much, just enough to keep me out of trouble, if you get what I mean. See what you can do, eh, Jodrell Bank?

Bye for now. I'll call you later, old friend. After all, there is a lot between us, isn't there? And I'd like to keep it that way. Especially the distance. Over, and way out.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Police Training

It is time to talk facts concerning the salary raise for police and firemen.

We need police and fire protection and must expect to pay for these services, but the present wage scale is far out of proportion to the qualifications required. It is that simple.

An intelligent, impartial commission, appointed to look into the facts and compare our police departments with others in Canada would find, to their amazement, that a policeman here does not require or receive any training compared with other department forces.

They get no prior service training and very little (if any recognized training) after joining. Other police forces receive intensive and expert training prior to actual duty, often at their own expense and in many cases miles from their home department.

Other forces have many months of training and advance to higher wage brackets only after further and more thorough training in investigation. Here no special qualifications or training are required.

Then again, the Island as a whole cannot be compared to police work in other parts of Canada. Here we have no travelling bands of criminals or drug addicts, we have no rough element to speak of for they will not stay on an Island where there is little getaway, and certainly no criminal gangs.

Here, police work, as compared with other places is a very mild type of police work and highly paid.

Humane Traps

For a great many years the SPCA in Canada and the Humane Societies in the United States have been seeking humane methods of trapping wild animals with the sole object of eliminating the gross cruelty and the dreadful suffering involved in the old and primitive types of trapping. The Conibear Trap appears to be a solution to this vexatious problem and it is to be hoped that its use will soon become compulsory.

Your correspondent, Mr. J. A. Hamilton, attempts to convey the impression that the leg-hold traps are quite humane. The various Humane and Animal Welfare Societies, the Fur-Bearers Protective Association and anyone who has given any thought to this matter will not agree with him. These organizations have not given their time and effort over many years without just cause and a thorough knowledge of the subject.

It took over twenty-five years of concentrated effort to bring humane slaughter of food animals to Canada. The meat packers, accustomed to primitive and cruel methods of killing which had long been abolished in the European countries, were against the introduction of humane slaughter and the legislation became statutory by the efforts of the various societies and the pressure of public opinion.

An identical situation exists with the trappers opposing humane trapping methods. They are hardly likely to be helpful and their opinions should merit little consideration. It is shameful to think that the cruelties of trapping should have been permitted in this country for so many years.

Reminder

A reminder, that Queen Victoria's birthday, May 24th, held here this year the 23rd, hitherto called "Empire Day," was last year changed to be "Commonwealth Day," by all the British Commonwealth (now multi-racial) nations' agreement.

It's Been Done

The coverage of the Chessman episode you gave us readers of your paper was excellent in its completeness. It was almost as complete as American TV. Almost like having a ringside seat at an American lynching of a Negro. When are you going to give us some more? If you think it newsworthy, how about a full description of the American atom bombing of Hiroshima. Our appetite for American heroism is whetted.

WASHINGTON

Without Parallel

By MAX FREEDMAN

THERE has never been anything in diplomatic history of the United States to parallel its public though delayed admission of guilt when challenged by Premier Khrushchev with sponsoring a secret espionage flight over Russian territory.

The scale of the confession can only be measured against the early denials of any American responsibility. Three separate agencies of the American Government had gone on record as repudiating the accuracy of Mr. Khrushchev's charges. Without accepting every detail of those charges as completely accurate or reliable, it must be said that the central Russian accusation of espionage has now been fully confirmed, by the admission of the State Department itself.

But Mr. Eisenhower is still free to go to the summit in the search for peace, though the outlook now is most unpromising.

Under Study

It is quite true that the decision to resume underground tests has been under study for some time. Its announcement now is not inspired by a desire to retaliate against Russia because of the quarrel over the plane. But a wiser Government or one more sensitive to world opinion would have guarded itself against this unfortunate coincidence.

The combined effect of the two policies, as already evident from the protests pouring into the State Department, has been to give the United States the worst posture in world diplomacy that it has held for many years.

That is why the suggestion is being heard from many diplomats that the NATO Council as a matter of grave urgency must consider without delay the question of these espionage flights and seek a full report from the United States, within the limits of military security.

The United States in recent years has a good record in consulting the Council. It cannot now in good conscience plead that the rules of consultation do not apply to all flights which may endanger all civilization.

When Mr. Khrushchev's charges first reached this city, the National Aeronautical and Space Administration said in a formal statement that the U-2 plane had left Adana in Turkey at 8 a.m. on Sunday, May 1 on a scientific and nonsecret flight. It added that the plane was under orders to remain within Turkish territory.

Having Trouble

At 9 o'clock it was 100 miles from the Soviet border. The pilot, Mr. Francis G. Powers, then reported that he was having trouble with his oxygen equipment.

Later the State Department amplified this theme. It said it was "entirely possible that, having a failure in the oxygen equipment which could result in the pilot losing consciousness, the plane continued on automatic pilot for a considerable distance and accidentally violated Soviet air space."

Then the Defence Department entered the act. It denied that the plane could have followed the route outlined by Mr. Khrushchev. The Russian leader said the plane began its flight not in Turkey but in Pakistan, with its route taking it across Russia to Murmansk and Archangel, ending in Norway. The department claimed that Mr. Khrushchev had given the plane a range of some 1,200 miles beyond its fuel capacity in assigning it this route.

When the recantation and apology were made, the State Department never attempted to justify these earlier comments, beyond remarking that they had been offered in good faith in the light of the information then available.

Weather Research

It is generally assumed here that the U-2 plane does indeed engage in weather research. That activity provides protective coloration for the hidden espionage. It is not without significance that all the U-2 planes, wherever they are located, have been grounded for inspection.

On June 28, 1958, a United States Air Force plane, the C-118, was shot down behind the Soviet-Turkish border. All nine members of the crew survived. They were returned after being held for ten days. Another American plane, the C-130, was shot down in the same area on Sept. 2, 1958. Russia returned the bodies of six members of the crew but has given no information about eleven missing men.

In both cases the State Department claimed in public statements that the flights were wholly peaceful. The C-118 was said to be engaged in the delivery of a routine cargo and the C-130 was said to be studying radio-wave propagation.

Entirely Accidental

The intrusion of the C-118 over Russian territory was described as entirely accidental. It was suggested that the C-130 had been lured across the border and ambushed by Russian directional beams from radio stations maintained by Russia for that purpose.

Russia has argued that these planes were on espionage flights, as was the plane on April 9 about which the State Department professes to have no information.

Prudence as well as wisdom dictated the admission and apology of the State Department. For it did not know what Mr. Powers had revealed to Russia about the espionage flights that are now conceded to have taken place over the last four years.

But it also needed courage to admit the lie and attempt to restore faith in the honest words of the American Government. In a sad and squalid affair the State Department at least deserves respect and recognition on that one point.

Historic Inns

HAMPSTEAD—We have been to sip port wine with them down at the Old Bull and Bush. When we sing the song that music hall comedienne Florrie Forde popularized so many years ago, we'll be able to picture the celebrated pub in its neat brickwork, low-ceilinged public rooms, dart-board and reproductions of period prints in the Hogarth bar.

Stott

And into the picture will intrude the doughty harriers who passed on the pathway outside, heading up Hampstead Heath in their running trunks on a chilly forenoon. They seem to take their distance running seriously here.

We'll remember, too, the shaggy-coated ponies with their young riders astride that made their way up the bridge path, each with a traditional riding hat, but apart from that, the widest possible variety of costumes.

We'll recollect the annex to the Manor House Hospital, a few yards down the road, with its brass plaque announcing that Anna Pavlova lived there for years.

And we'll call to mind that the authorities in that region built rough fences around new-growth trees to protect them from the feet of thousands who trudge that section of Hampstead on hot summer days.

When we had left the Bull and Bush behind on our journey from Golders' Green, we climbed the hill to Jack Straw's Castle, another famous hostelry which, we were told, took its name from Rack-straw castle, in turn a corruption from Rickstraw castle, which may mean a big haystack. It is more noted for hops than hay now.

We travelled the highway Dick Turpin rode until we came to the Spaniards, an inn packed with young people in holiday spirit, and there we made the acquaintance of the thick, rich, ham sandwiches you can buy at so many pubs for a quick lunch. That, and a couple of sizzling hot, generous sausages served on toothpicks, help you to remember that pubs here, unlike their ungentle namesakes in British Columbia, are not created merely to push as much beer down a patron's throat as he can swallow in a given time. They're places of refreshment, places where you can enjoy a social interlude or places where you can sit quietly even in a crowd and mull over your impressions.

So that we wouldn't be considered mere pub-crawlers, we rounded off the afternoon at Kenwood House, once the estate of Lord Iyegh, and achieved some idea of what was called gracious living in a past century before income taxes took so many of these manors from their owners and gave them to the public.

The terraces, the rolling lawns, the formal gardens, the lake, the woods, spring flowers and birds give the grounds a spaciousness and beauty which seems to be appreciated and not abused by the constant stream of visitors who find relaxation there.

This is a home styled by Adams, richly furnished and adorned by one of those collections of art which continually stun a Canadian with their number of originals and the wealth they display without ostentation.

If the former occupants discovered how to keep warm in winter and early spring, they must have enjoyed a life to which I could easily become accustomed.

TODAY'S BEST FROM EUROPE

NOBODY LIKES LOUW

His Mind's Shut To All Reproach

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The real tragedy of the Commonwealth conference is that of the big man who isn't here.

As worried ministers grope for a solution to the South African problem, the absence from London of ailing Premier Dr. Hendrik Verwoerd is increasingly regretted.

With Verwoerd slowly recovering from bullet wounds, his place at the conference table in Downing Street is taken by Eric Louw, the union's external affairs minister.

It will be Louw's duty to carry back to the sick man in Pretoria a true picture of the feelings of his commonwealth colleagues — and that is exactly what some observers fear he may fail to do.

For Louw is widely regarded here as an impenetrable man, with a mind closed to entreaty or reproach. British officials, usually polite in their assessment of visiting dignitaries, are unusually blunt in their remarks about Louw.

One London paper says it is "no secret that some of the prime ministers are developing a considerable personal antagonism towards this dogmatic man."

A weekly magazine, The Economist, says Louw will be no more impressed by his isolation than "a rhinoceros can be tickled with a straw."

There is reason to believe that things might have been different with Verwoerd. He is just as convinced as Louw of the rightness of Nationalist racial policies, but he is formidable intellectually and prepared to listen to other points of view.

Conference sources feel he would have received a different impression here than the one Louw will pass on to him. As it is, the result may be that South Africa will persist in policies that a great majority of outside observers regard as folly.

For these reasons, the conference is submerged in pessimism and foreboding. Probably the Commonwealth will survive this crisis, as it has survived other dark moments. If it does not, the blame may be attributed in part to the bullets that prevented Verwoerd from keeping his date in London.

Missionary Ordered Deported

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters) — Justice Minister Francois Erasmus has signed an order to deport British missionary Hannah Stanton, it was disclosed Tuesday.

An affidavit submitted to the Supreme Court said Erasmus had declared Miss Stanton persona non grata.

The court was resuming its hearing of an urgent application, submitted by Miss Stanton last week for her immediate and unconditional release. The missionary has asked the court to prevent Erasmus from deporting her until her application has been decided.

She claimed she has been kept in virtual solitary confinement, been refused access to her lawyer for a period and that there was "no justification" for her detention.

Miss Stanton, a British subject, is warden of the Tume-long Anglican mission in Lady Selbourne Negro township, near here. She was detained March 30 under emergency regulations imposed following Negro riots.

Ghana Asks Passport For Commonwealth

LONDON (CP) — The Guardian says Commonwealth prime ministers during their conference here may discuss the possibility of a Commonwealth passport.

The Manchester newspaper says the question was raised outside the conference by Ghana, which is interested in discussing some kind of "laissez passer" for South African political refugees that would be recognized by Rhodesian authorities.

Easing of Liquor Laws Urged for Negroes

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — A government commission Tuesday urged a relaxation of the virtual prohibition imposed on Negroes under South Africa's stringent liquor laws.

If accepted by white legislators, the new regulations could mean the end of the rule of the "shebeen queens" — African women bootleggers who do a roaring trade in high-potency concoctions.

The commission's report submitted to Parliament said Negroes should be allowed to drink wine and beer in their segregated taverns. Under the much-violated laws now in force Negroes are permitted only kaffir beer, a corn brew with a low alcohol content.

The report also urged a new permit system for supplying liquor to Negroes outside of taverns that would be more flexible than the system now in use.

Shearer Back in Ballet

LONDON—They never give up do they?

Moir Shearer, who is now 34, has always regretted the fact that at the height of her fame as a ballet dancer following her Red Shoes film she gave up dancing to scale the heights as a straight actress.

She never made it, so out come the ballet shoes again. She'll try to recapture past glories in The Ballets of Paris, a two-hour, big-screen, color film to be made in that city.

Reyburn

The French, besides their great interest in ballet, have turned out to be very hot indeed at rugby football. France has wound up the season by thoroughly trouncing poor old Ireland to become co-champions with England for the 1959-60 season.

Both France and England have come through unbeaten, their meeting a few weeks back resulting in a 3-3 draw. Instead of sharing the title, how about a play-off? That's what the Frenchmen, regarded as the liveliest team in international rugby for many a year, are asking and the fans here are all in favor of such a needle match.

But by tradition there are never any play-offs, the international championship often being shared by two of the five sides (England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales and France) and on three occasions by three of them! The diehard Rugby Union, however, is unlikely to yield to the clamor of the rugby followers. It would be commercializing the game.

Big spender: New Yorker Alfred Bloomingdale, credit-card boss of the Diner's Club of America, has just presented the Rolls-Royce company with a cheque for $1,134,000. It's for 60, no less, brand new Rolls-Royces.

They are for a special branch of the club's car hire service in New York. It will have the snob-appel title of The Buckingham Livery Service.

Ideal, Bloomingdale says, for U.S. businessmen to impress their clients and boy friends to make a hit with their girls—Rolls-Royces with drivers at the wheel dressed like English chauffeurs, with accents to match.

African Student Plan Dropped

VANCOUVER (CP) — A plan to sponsor a Negro South African student at the University of British Columbia has fallen through because of South Africa's rigid apartheid policy.

The National Union of South African Students told the UBC student council in a letter that all applications for passports in the last year have been refused. It was extremely unlikely that any non-white student granted a scholarship by UBC would be allowed to leave the country.

Students at UBC started a scholarship fund four weeks ago as a protest against South African government policy. So far about $700 has been collected.

Two of the 26 seats in the Senate of Northern Ireland are held for the Lord Mayor of Belfast and the mayor of Londonderry.

Extra Care Now Pays Off Later

The polyanthus primulas have passed their prime in all but the tree-shaded gardens. It is now time to give them care so that they may increase their beauty for another year.

Most people find that the polyanthus plants are rather in the way after they have finished blooming, and indeed they add little to the garden picture during summer.

Hilda

Possibly the best place for them to spend the warm days is in the shadiest part of the vegetable garden—perhaps on the north side of raspberries.

Cut off the old flower heads and dig the polyanthus plants. Take them to a shaded place to divide them into individual sections, or crowns, each having its own roots.

With a pair of sharp secateurs, or scissors, shorten the roots to about three inches, and replant at once in rows of well dug soil. About five inches apart will do, and compost leaf-mould or peat-moss mixed into the planting holes will help to keep moisture around the roots during summer.

When giving the raspberries their thorough soakings, from May through summer with canvas hose or with low-set sprinklers, the polyanthus plants will get their share. Being shallow rooted they will not interfere with the raspberry roots if planted about 18 inches away from the base of the canes.

EASIER ACCESS

This spacing will also give access for cutting out the fruited canes when the time comes.

By late September, the polyanthus plants will have filled out and be ready for transplanting back to their flowering positions for next spring's display.

let's see... two plugs... three tom macks... a dodger, and 100 yards of line... oh well it could have been worse... might have lost the motor or my rod... tyee-schmyee... anybody can catch salmon... takes real talent to land a fightin' mad three pound dog fish... time to...

Relax, Quarrel and Fall

In this second of a series of four articles, William L. Ryan describes the strategy and tactics behind the Soviet approach to the summit conference which convenes Monday.

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

In November, 1957, Moscow summoned leaders of 64 countries to an important conference.

From it came a declaration which has colored Soviet policy ever since. It is the very essence of world communism's approach to next week's summit meeting in Paris.

Disarmament and the dynamic Berlin-German questions will dominate the summit talks of President Eisenhower, Premier Khrushchev, President de Gaulle and Prime Minister Macmillan. But Communist preparation was concentrated elsewhere, on the real core of the East-West global conflict. The intense struggle over the future of underdeveloped countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Authoritative Communist pronouncements in connection with the recent celebration of Lenin's 90th anniversary, provide a treasure trove of Soviet aims and intentions:

1. Since the war, capitalism has achieved further development because of huge spending for arms. A relaxed atmosphere will bring demands for relief from the tax burden for arms.

2. Whatever happens at the summit, efforts will be made to retain a relaxed mood for a while, in expectation of Western economic dislocations. The capitalist world will fall into quarrels and contradictions and a world crisis will follow.

3. While preparing for this, Communists will trust Moscow's "political wisdom," conduct themselves as "proletarian internationalists" and believe whatever is good for world communism.

4. Communist leaders are chiefly concerned with "the ceaseless process of liberating more and more peoples" from other continents if the people of imperialism. Events in Asia Cuba have shown all Latin America an example of how a of Western capitalism. The people can liberate itself from battle now shifts to the Middle the yoke of American imperialism, East, Africa, and, as one Communist interest.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats... actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken-down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested, fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, head-achy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!

... CANADA'S DEFENCE

stopping every possible threat, from slow-flying, piston-driven bombers of World War Two vintage, to ICBMs.

Impossible Theory

Even if financially practical, which it is not, this theory of all-round defence is scientifically impossible, for the present, and for the foreseeable future.

At the present moment, the entire Western world places its faith, and possibly its future, on the U.S. conviction that no system of defence yet devised can even stop a manned bomber attack!

The Strategic Air Command, whose giant jet bombers leave their vapor trails high over Canada almost every day of the week, is, at present, our only retaliatory force.

It knows the Russians have extensive defences, including anti-aircraft missiles and jet interceptors.

Bomber by Bomber

But the top men at SAC say they can destroy Russia despite those defences.

If war does come, wave after wave of SAC bombers will head toward Russia. The first waves are expendable, their only job being to wipe out the defensive forces, by H-bombing airfields, missile bases, and all other defensive installations. They will literally hammer their way into the heartland of the Communist empire, bomber by bomber.

If SAC can do it, why not the Russians, who for the time being would have a variety of ICBMs to throw as well as bombers?

Here is the contradiction. The West claims nothing can stop a manned bomber attack on Russia, yet military and political leaders in Canada and the United States choose to attempt to stop any attack on North America.

One theory put forward by the United States is that every Russian bomber knocked down means one target, military or civilian, saved.

'Overkill' Capacity

For some years, the theory was provable, but within three years, and possibly less, according to classified United States information, Russia will have an "overkill" capacity.

In other words, there will be more than enough H-bomb carriers to wipe out every target. If one weapon is knocked down, there will be another to take its place. And for the majority of those weapons there is no defence.

Some of our top military minds are reluctantly coming to the belief there is no defence. But in the tradition of the United States cavalry, they want to hang on to their horses.

Consider the problems in-

involved in intercepting an ICBM.

First, it must be detected. Three giant radar stations are now under construction for this purpose. Incredibly complicated electronic computers built into the machines will have to be relied upon to determine what is, and what is not, an ICBM, and where it is headed.

Matter of Seconds

The computers will have to immediately trigger an anti-missile missile (not yet developed) that will be able to launch itself, reach a position far above the earth's atmosphere, separate the warhead from "junk" and rocket components, and from decoys, and blow it up, all in the course of seconds.

Trying to blow up missiles launched from submarines, and from manned bombers, is an even more complicated problem. Scientists are baffled at the prospect of overcoming it. In their demand for an all-encompassing, balanced defence, the military have short-changed the retaliatory force. SAC generals for years have been trying to obtain funds for what they term an "airborne alert."

At the present time, an attack would find the majority of SAC bombers on the ground, vulnerable to missile attack. SAC wants to put a third of them in the air, and keep them there 24 hours a day.

Some of the money the United States was blowing on Bomarc is now going to be used for that purpose.

Troubles Layman

Here is another inconsistency that troubles the layman attempting to unravel the mysteries of defence: If the only reason for interceptors and Bomarc is to protect the SAC bases, why not spend the money taking SAC off the ground, in which event interceptors and Bomarc would not be required?

If Canada and the U.S. were, in fact, defence partners, Canadian views on this and other matters would be part and parcel of all decisions.

Instead, as Mr. Pearkes has admitted recently, we must sit back and wait for the U.S. to decide what form continental defence will take next.

Already a deal is cooking to swap aircraft between the two countries. The U.S. would agree to buy a number of CL-44 cargo planes, built in Canada, if Canada purchases a number of U.S. interceptors.

If the CL-44 is truly needed by U.S. forces (and it is fast gaining a reputation as an economical, efficient air carrier) it seems incredible that such terms should be attached to the purchase.

More incredible things have happened.

'MUST HAVE RAISES EVEN IF NO MONEY'

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank H. Hall completed the non-operating railway employees' brief before a three-man conciliation board Tuesday by claiming the employees must have raises even if the companies have no money to pay them.

"Our position is simply that we must not be expected to subsidize public policy, any more than we can expect to be subsidized by public policy," Mr. Hall told the board during the second day of hearings into the contract dispute.

If the government has decided to force the railways to perform unprofitable services in order to benefit the whole of the Canadian public, then the whole public must bear the cost, not just the railway employees, said Mr. Hall.

Six-Month Term For Raiding Till

Keith Alfred Shepherd, 1060 Burdett, was sentenced in Sarnia police court Tuesday to at least six months in jail for stealing $34 from a service station till May 3.

Magistrate William Ostler gave the 18-year-old a term of six months definite and four months indeterminate at Oakalla Prison's young offender's unit.

Referring to a probation report, Mr. Ostler found the boy had a poor record and behavior pattern that indicates incorrigibility. He noted Shepherd was unresponsive to efforts of others to straighten him up.

'ONLY HOPE'

"You certainly will have an unhappy life if you don't straighten up," the magistrate reported Tuesday.

TASTE TEST FOR CHAR

OTTAWA (CP) — Eskimo-caught Arctic char is going to be put to the taste test by 200 European gourmets. The Northern Affairs Department announced today that the pink trout-like Arctic fish will be served to members of a gourmet club, Societe Nationale de Protection de la Nature, Nature Protection Society in Paris on May 28.

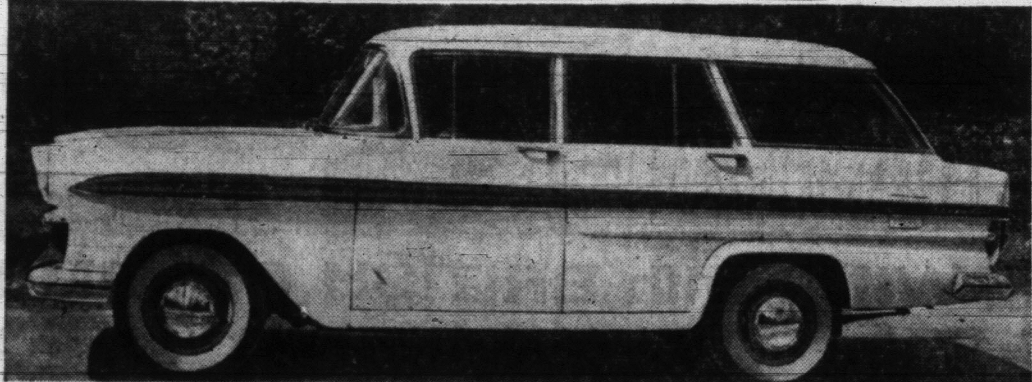

"This is the first step toward developing a European market for Arctic char," said Northern Affairs Minister Alvin Hamilton.

... CANADA'S DEFENCE

stopping every possible threat, from slow-flying, piston-driven bombers of World War Two vintage, to ICBMs.

Impossible Theory

Even if financially practical, which it is not, this theory of all-round defence is scientifically impossible, for the present, and for the foreseeable future.

At the present moment, the entire Western world places its faith, and possibly its future, on the U.S. conviction that no system of defence yet devised can even stop a manned bomber attack!

The Strategic Air Command, whose giant jet bombers leave their vapor trails high over Canada almost every day of the week, is, at present, our only retaliatory force.

It knows the Russians have extensive defences, including anti-aircraft missiles and jet interceptors.

Bomber by Bomber

But the top men at SAC say they can destroy Russia despite those defences.

If war does come, wave after wave of SAC bombers will head toward Russia. The first waves are expendable, their only job being to wipe out the defensive forces, by H-bombing airfields, missile bases, and all other defensive installations. They will literally hammer their way into the heartland of the Communist empire, bomber by bomber.

If SAC can do it, why not the Russians, who for the time being would have a variety of ICBMs to throw as well as bombers?

Here is the contradiction. The West claims nothing can stop a manned bomber attack on Russia, yet military and political leaders in Canada and the United States choose to attempt to stop any attack on North America.

One theory put forward by the United States is that every Russian bomber knocked down means one target, military or civilian, saved.

'Overkill' Capacity

For some years, the theory was provable, but within three years, and possibly less, according to classified United States information, Russia will have an "overkill" capacity.

In other words, there will be more than enough H-bomb carriers to wipe out every target. If one weapon is knocked down, there will be another to take its place. And for the majority of those weapons there is no defence.

Some of our top military minds are reluctantly coming to the belief there is no defence. But in the tradition of the United States cavalry, they want to hang on to their horses.

Consider the problems in-

involved in intercepting an ICBM.

First, it must be detected. Three giant radar stations are now under construction for this purpose. Incredibly complicated electronic computers built into the machines will have to be relied upon to determine what is, and what is not, an ICBM, and where it is headed.

Matter of Seconds

The computers will have to immediately trigger an anti-missile missile (not yet developed) that will be able to launch itself, reach a position far above the earth's atmosphere, separate the warhead from "junk" and rocket components, and from decoys, and blow it up, all in the course of seconds.

Trying to blow up missiles launched from submarines, and from manned bombers, is an even more complicated problem. Scientists are baffled at the prospect of overcoming it. In their demand for an all-encompassing, balanced defence, the military have short-changed the retaliatory force. SAC generals for years have been trying to obtain funds for what they term an "airborne alert."

At the present time, an attack would find the majority of SAC bombers on the ground, vulnerable to missile attack. SAC wants to put a third of them in the air, and keep them there 24 hours a day.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

Is there something you want to know? You want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child-readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Judy Irwin, aged 11, of Victoria, B.C., for her question:

Does a Jellyfish Start Life As a Plant?

There are big and little jellyfishes, some live in salt water and some live in fresh water. All of them have jelly-like umbrellas with long streamers trailing below. They move by jet propulsion. The umbrella opens, taking in a bagful of water. Then it contracts, squirting out the water in a jet. The force of the jet pushes the jellyfish ahead. Most of the creatures are but a few inches wide but in the far northern Atlantic there lives a jellyfish whose umbrella is more than seven feet wide. His trailing tentacles may be 120 feet long and he may tip the scales at one ton.

No one would mistake an adult jellyfish for a plant. But if you watched his life cycle, you might make this mistake during his kindergarten days. There are special names for each of the amazing stages through which he passes. As an adult, he is called a medusa. At the proper time, the medusa

Resemble Stack of Daisies

The fringes which circle the trunk become deeper and the strobilla might remind you of a pile of daisies or perhaps a stack of frilly doilies. Actually, it is a pile of unborn jellyfish. When it is ready, the flat little doily on top of the pile breaks away. The centre of the doily becomes the jellyfish blob which is the centre of the animal's body. The fringed edges become the tentacles. At this stage, the baby jellyfish

Use the Naran Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

LONDON — Groucho Marx wrote to a couple of Hollywood friends who came to Europe to live more or less permanently: "Taxes are breaking up that old gang of mine."

The invasion of Europe by American show people just now is worse than the famous invasion by the locusts could possibly have been. I'm not going to talk about those who came over to avoid paying taxes. First, I'm too nice a guy, and second, it's libelous.

Liberace is one of those here working just a few months and not entitled to any income tax benefits. The Beautiful Wife and I visited him backstage at the Palladium. He brought his $14,500, custom-made, white, 21-foot Cadillac with a California licence plate with him. Scotland Yard asked him not to park it downtown, as it might take attention away from Princess Margaret's wedding, and things were rough enough as it was.

CIGAR, BRANDY

"Lee" rented a mansion which backs up on to Winston Churchill's yard. On a clear day he can see Sir Winston's two hands, one clutching a cigar, the other a brandy glass. However, there aren't any clear days.

Liberace got good reviews and, believe it or not, nobody said anything at all personal about him. He will do a royal command performance along with Sammy Davis, Jr., and Nat (King) Cole on May 16, and it will be televised for the first time.

ANDY LIKED HER QUESTION

Saanich Girl First To Win New Prize

First Victoria winner of the World Book Encyclopedia offered by the Ask Andy column for the best question of the day for the column is Judy Irwin, 11, of 624 Lambie Drive in Saanich.

The new prize, of 20 volumes, was offered this week for the first time as major award for the leading question chosen for discussion in the science feature, which appears daily except Saturday on this page.

ANSWERED TODAY

Judy's question on jellyfish is answered in today's column. Her question was inspired by her reading, which is nearly always on nature subjects. She is a regular customer of the Bookmobile and confines reading of comic books—on parent's orders, it must be admitted—to summer at the family cottage on Shawnigan Lake.

Judy is a Girl Guide, having "flown up" only recently after 3½ years as a Brownie.

IN CHOIR

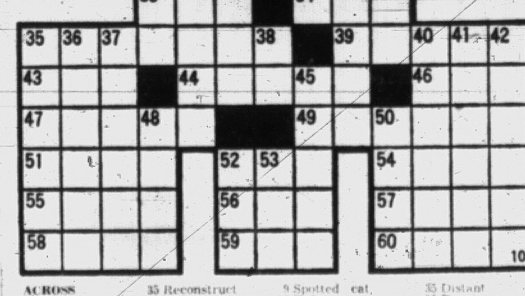

She is in Grade 5 at Marigold School, sings in the school choir, and last week came third with her class in the city music festival. In addition she plays the clarinet as a student of a neighbor who teaches youngsters as a hobby, and is hoping to join the Colquitz Junior High School band in the fall. Her favorite subjects are writing and arithmetic, and she has had her mind made up for some time to be a teacher.

Horses she loves, and hopes some day to have her own. Meanwhile, she learned to swim last year, and this year will learn water skiing from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Irwin.

Two Months of Hunger In Grim 'Headless Valley'

EDMONTON (CP) — "We almost exploded with joy when we saw the plane," said Dean Rossborn, 55-year-old Yellowknife prospector, from his hospital bed Tuesday.

Rossborn, weak and emaciated, and John Richardson, were flown to Yellowknife Saturday by Yellowknife pilots Chuck and Jim McAvoy after spending two months almost without food at a prospecting camp in the fabled Nahanni ("Headless") Valley.

Rossborn described his ordeal in a radio-telephone interview with Ron Hayter of the Edmonton Journal.

He said the party of five went to McMillan Lake, 400 miles west of here, last October, and understood they were to be picked up March 3. The plane didn't arrive and food supplies ran out.

TOOK HIS LIFE

Rossborn said Alex Meiskonen took his own life in a dynamite blast. Tom Pappas and Orville Webb, the two other members of the party, still are missing. They left the camp April 12 to walk to the settlement of Nahanni Lutts, about 110 miles by air.

Rossborn said Meiskonen was the most despondent of the group when the plane did not appear. "He kept insisting that he would never get out of the valley."

On March 17, he went out with some wire to try to snare a rabbit. "We heard a terrific bang."

"Orville Webb came back and said 'Alex has blown himself all to pieces.'"

"For the next 26 days we hoped, prayed and kept a watchful eye on the sky, but nothing appeared. We lived on what rabbits and squirrels and partridges we could shoot—we even ate a wildcat. We ate four of our dogs, including one that had died two months before and had been thrown in the creek. We blasted tree trunks, then took the roots and boiled them to get the juice. We also chewed tree bark."

DECIDED TO WALK

"On April 11, Tom and Orville decided to walk to Nahanni Butte and get help. I couldn't make it, I knew, because I was quite weak from hunger and had broken out in sores. John decided to stick with me."

"As we said goodbye I remember thinking: 'The odds are against them, but they have a chance to make it.' They were both young men—Orville 36 and Tommy about 40—and both were big, husky types. An RCMP constable left Fort Liard Tuesday to begin a search for the missing men."

"When they left, we had one dog left. This, along with boiled caribou skin, and the odd rabbit and squirrel, was our main diet."

"After our meal ran out, we smashed dog bones and boiled the marrow out of them. We even tried eating whiskey jacks (Canada jays), but we found them inedible."

SAW CHUCK'S PLANE

"Then, last Saturday, we saw Chuck McAvoy's single-engine plane. We yelled and waved our parkas. . . .

"When the plane landed on McMillan Lake, we almost exploded with joy."

Rossborn weighed 175 pounds when he left Yellowknife last fall. He lost 55 pounds during the ordeal. Hospital officials, however, said he was in amazingly good condition. Richardson, who is in his 20s, was not detained in hospital.

UNIONIST CONVICTED OF TRUCK BOMBING

PORTLAND (AP) — A State Circuit Court jury convicted a Stereotypers Union member Tuesday of directing the bombing of 10 newspaper trucks.

The jury of nine women and three men took slightly more than an hour to convict Levi S. McDonald, 54, former member of the union's negotiating committee.

The bombing came the night of Jan. 31, nearly three months after the start of a strike against the Oregon Journal and the Oregonian.

The strike still continues with both papers publishing with non-union help. Maximum penalty is 20 years imprisonment. Judge Davis set sentencing for Friday.

Mall Vote Stalled Again; All Ratepayers May Ballot

Victoria's downtown mall vote is stalled until the city and the provincial government can agree on who is eligible to cast ballots.

The parking bylaw is back in the hands of city council for revision after two attempts to get it approved by the municipal affairs department.

A vote restricted to downtown business property owners was postponed from May 5 when "a technical hitch" developed. A second date of May 19 was set, but this time, the provincial department found further fault in the draft bylaw.

May 19 is out because 10 days must elapse between advertisement of the approved bylaw and polling day.

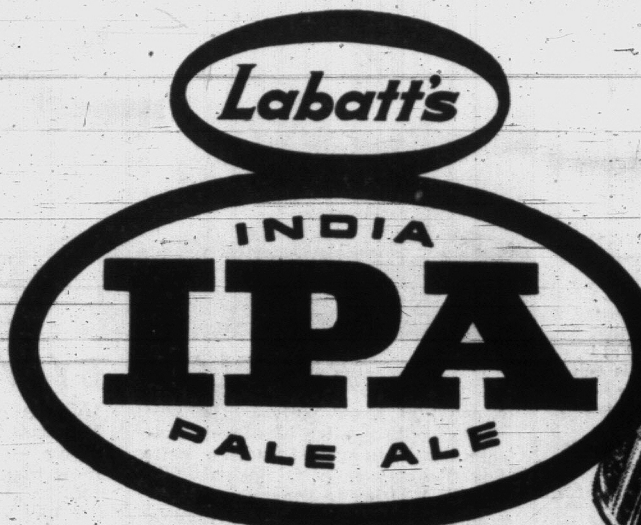

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell said Tuesday the vote may be extended to all city property owners—not just businessmen in the affected area.

He said council will review the entire bylaw in the next two weeks because the government would not accept the bylaw "in the way we want it."

While the city wants to have a vote as soon as possible, it's unlikely any decision on a revised bylaw will be made for at least a week. Mayor Percy Scurrah is in Chicago for an international mayors' convention all this week.

Prairie Funeral For City Resident

Burial will take place in Paynton, Sask., Thursday of Edward Petty, 86, who homesteaded in that area for more than 30 years after coming to Canada 55 years ago.

Mr. Petty died in Victoria Friday. He had lived here eight years.

Born in England, he went to sea as a boy and eventually became purser with the old Castle Line plying between London and Capetown.

Prayers were said here Saturday at McCall's chapel and a requiem mass will be said at Paynton.

Survivors include the widow, Margaret, of Victoria, and a daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Baird, also Victoria.

Off to Ottawa

DUNCAN — Peter Armstrong, 17, Shawnigan Lake Boys' School student who won the Duncan Rotary Club "Adventure in Citizenship" speaking contest, has left to enjoy his prize — a five-day visit in Ottawa.

While in the capital the young Vancouver boy will meet the prime minister and tour the Parliament Buildings.

CAKE

"I'm no connoisseur of cakes —
I just know what I like"

My wife talks about lightness, texture and all these mysterious things a good cake is supposed to be — but I'm a taste man. When I take a mouthful I know I like it or I know I don't. My wife makes the kind of a cake I like with Ogilvie mix. Maybe it's her special touch, maybe it's the mix, but for me it's the only cake.

Look how many ways you can please the men in your life. 6 wonderful Flavours . . . in convenient Twin-Packs. Twin-Packs let you bake two small cakes, cupcakes, or one big cake; it's the cake pack designed especially for your needs.

THEY CAN'T BLAME LOU FOR CUBS' LONG SKEIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago Cubs had one of their longest streaks in years today—five straight bad-weather postponements.

"Enough is enough," said Lou Boudreau, whose debut as the club's new manager was marred 9-7 last Thursday by Pittsburgh Pirates.

Boudreau hasn't had a chance since to try to start the Cubs climbing out of the National League cellar.

Rain washed out their entire three-game series with Milwaukee, plus a re-scheduled Monday date with the Braves, and Tuesday's opener of a three-game set with the hot Cincinnati Reds.

The league record for successive postponed games is nine, set by the Phillies in 1903.

Jim Piggott won't agree, but the news that Los Angeles isn't fussy about getting a Western Hockey League franchise could be one of the best things that has happened to the WHL in a long time.

The people who run the swank new arena in the City of Angels made it plain that they believe what almost everybody has been saying when they announced that no dates would be available for WHL games until after the National Hockey League meeting in June. They figure their fans—feasting on a diet of major-league baseball and football, and due to taste big-time pro basketball next winter—won't be enthusiastic about any sports product bearing a minor league label.

Even with a welcome mat waiting in California, it is doubtful if WHL directors would have agreed on shifting a franchise to the land of avocados and smog. Now that the issue appears destined to be shelved until at least next winter, they may stop worrying about who is going to get the first shot at California gold long enough to take a closer look at their own operations. A realistic view is overdue.

One of the WHL's weak spots has been the tendency of individual owners to look out only for their own clubs. Strong teams with experienced managers have taken advantage of weak ones with tyro pilots. Although competition is the life blood of any sport, there has been no real attempt at legislation that would balance the league or spread the wealth around a bit.

Spokane, for instance, was one of the country's brightest hockey towns a few years ago, but two campaigns without a snowball's chance of winning anything have made it a shaky member of the WHL.

More money passed through league turnstiles last season than in any campaign since 1954-55. With the inclusion of Portland Buckaroos next winter, the league has an improved foundation for a solid little circuit. Some unselfish planning Thursday and Friday during the league meeting at Calgary might be enough to do the trick.

Last Season Easier on Bank Account

For Victoria fans the main interest in the Calgary session will be news of Jim Piggott's plans for the Cougars. Although there seems some doubt that the new Memorial Arena floor will be installed soon enough for exhibition games in late September and Piggott is talking of rental problems, it seems probable he will again operate the Victoria franchise.

He is still hoping to place a club in Los Angeles, but the Cougar owner must have received some satisfaction from the results of his first season in Victoria. Final figures aren't available, but it seems probable that the Cats will just about break even on their 1959-60 efforts, which means that for the first time since he stepped into pro hockey, Piggott won't be shelling out a bundle to own a club.

And if he elects to go for another season here, the Cats could wind up with quite a collection of players.

Manager-coach Hal Laycoe and the former New Westminster players will be with Portland next season, but the Cats still own the contracts of goalie Marcel Pelletier, defencemen Jim Hay and Don McLeod, who played at Kingston last winter; centres Doug Anderson and Gerry Goyer, and right wingers George Ford and Doug Macaulay. Piggott also owns winger Elliott Chorley, who scored 13 goals for St. Paul in International Hockey League playoffs, and Paul Masnick would probably be willing to come back for another campaign.

They All Want Working Agreement

On top of that, genial Jim is in an excellent bargaining position. Every NHL club is eager to get a working agreement with him because his sponsorship of junior hockey in the Saskatoon area gives him control over a flock of bright buck prospects.

Probably available to Piggott next winter are four Saskatchewan junior all-stars—defencemen Ed Van Impe and forwards Don Wilson, Jerry Esch and Bert Fizzell. Chicago, operating in the Saskatoon territory before Piggott took over, has NHL rights to that quartet, but the construction man has first call on future graduates.

And Piggott's choice for a manager-coach might be Frank Boucher, one of the NHL's all-time greats who has been looking after Jim's junior interests. Frank piloted New York Rangers to one Stanley Cup title and coached Brandon the year the Regals picked up all the WHL marbles, which means he packs impressive coaching credentials.

It's a better situation than the one waiting for Laycoe at Portland. Hal starts in at Portland with goalie Reno Zander, defencemen Ron Matthews and Pete Wright, and forwards Arnie Schmutz, Art Jones and Gordie Fashaway. Dick Roberge is a possibility but Arlie Godwin will be out for at least one season since he is due to undergo operations on both his often-injured shoulders.

The Victoria picture is bright enough that Laycoe remarked when he left for the Calgary meeting: "I certainly envy Mr. Piggott's player position."

Ol' Casey Struck Out As Southpaw Dentist

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, 69, started his second half-century in baseball today with his usual sly wink and a long look back to Kankakee, Ill.

It was on May 10, 1910, that Stengel, 19, took his spot in centre field for Kankakee in the old Northern Association.

"They called me 'Dutch' in them days," rasped the New York Yankees manager. "I dunno why, but they did."

"The league only lasted until July 4 and no records were kept. I never did find out what I was hitting. After the last game, the owners split up all the dough they pulled in and beat it."

"I didn't know it during the last two weeks, but I was playing for nothing. I never did collect that pay."

Stengel recalled the field was across the street from the state mental institution and the patients were his most loyal fans.

"I always thought one of the things that I needed improvement on the most was sliding," Casey said. "So after I grabbed the last ball during fielding practice, I'd fire it back as hard as I could, throw my glove away and, at top speed, slide into the glove."

"The folks across the street always gave me a big hand when I'd get up. But y'know, I don't think anyone else knew what I was doing..."

In those days Stengel wasn't thinking of hanging around baseball for another 50 years.

"Matter of fact, all I had on my mind was making enough money to go to dental school the following winter. I still had my mind set on being a left-handed dentist."

BIG BLOW BY VIC

Greeted at home plate by bat-boy Paul Needham after blasting grand-slam home run against Chicago White Sox Tuesday night is Boston's Vic Wertz. Waiting to congratulate veteran first baseman are Pete Runnels (3) and Bobby Thompson (25). Frank

Malzone is walking toward dugout. Four-run blow made Wertz fourth active American Leaguer to drive in more than 1,000 runs, lifting his RBI total to 1,001. It was also key clout in 9-7 Red Sox victory over last year's League champions. (AP Wirephoto.)

Rip Just Checked Hat In Time to Join Picnic

By UP International
Even if they build a bridge, Rip Repulski, Johnny Temple and Dick Hall ain't going back to the National League because the American suits 'em just fine.

This is the first season in the American League for all three and if they had any idea it was this easy, they probably would have wanted to move over from the National a lot sooner.

Repulski, an ex-Dodger, barely took his hat and coat off with the Red Sox when he delivered a grand-slam homer in his first time at bat in the American League Tuesday night to beat the White Sox, 9-7.

Temple, a Cincinnati star for many years, drove in the first run of the season off Yankee relief ace Ryne Duren to break a 1-1 tie and help Cleveland Indians to a 5-1 victory in 10 innings.

And Hall, who couldn't make it with the Pittsburgh Pirates, reeled off his third straight triumph without a defeat in pitching Kansas City Athletics to 10-0 decision over Baltimore Orioles.

Detroit Tigers snapped a 10-game losing streak by beating the Washington Senators, 1-0, on Rocky Colavito's ninth-inning homer, in the other A.L. game.

GIANTS TRIUMPH
San Francisco Giants retained their game-and-a-half National League lead by defeating Philadelphia Phillies, 4-2, for their fourth straight, while the Pirates downed the Dodgers, 3-2. The only other scheduled game, between the Reds and Chicago Cubs, was postponed because of cold and rain.

Repulski's homer was one of five hit in the Red Sox-White Sox struggle. Roy Sievers, Al Smith and Sherm Lollar each connected for the White Sox while Vic Wertz put the Red Sox in front with a grand-slam off starter Early Wynn in the first inning.

The White Sox kept rapping away, however, and tied the score at 5-5. That's how matters stood when Repulski came up as a pinch hitter with the bases full in the eighth. Despite the loss, the White Sox retained the AL lead by a game.

NO TROUBLE
Hall had a minimum of trouble with the Orioles in snapping a three-game losing streak for the Athletics. The six-foot-six right-hander limited Baltimore to six hits, struck out six and did not walk a batter.

Colavito's homer with two out in the ninth broke up a fine pitching duel between Don Mossi of the Tigers and Tex Clevenger of the Senators. The home run was Colavito's fourth of the season but only his first since April 23. Rocky had collected only four singles in his previous 39 times up.

Vern Law of the Pirates posted his fifth victory in six decisions by holding the Dodgers to eight hits, including a homer by Norm Sherry.

TOKYO HURLER SETS RECORD

TOKYO (AP)—Takehiko Bessho, 37-year-old right-handed pitcher, has won his 302nd pro baseball game. It is a Japanese record.

He pitches for the Yomiuri Tokyo Giants and has been a member of the team since 1942. Bessho has pitched in 634 games and lost 174. His last triumph came in relief.

J. D. MARTIN

... one to break 16-foot barrier?

Soaring Sooner One to Watch

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK (NEA)—Young men have been pole vaulting since many years before the Christian Era.

Yet until the other afternoon at Norman, Okla., only one had soared as high as 15 feet 9 3/4 inches, which is the American record established by Bob Gutowski in the Texas Relays, June 15, 1957.

So, when J. D. Martin, a rather obscure Oklahoma junior, equals that mark, superior track and field buffs become excited.

Bill Carroll, the Oklahoma coach, himself a champion vaulter a decade or so back, believes young Martin will go higher. The boy's ambition is to crack 16 feet and make the Olympic team.

Martin's only misses in a quadrangular meet were three at 16 feet. He dunked badly on the first and third. "I was scared," he explained. On the second attempt he brushed off the bar.

Because they are so tremendously specialized, pole vaulting and high jumping are especially intriguing to people who follow the scintillating.

When John Thomas of Boston University resumed competition in last winter's indoor meets, someone suggested that he jump over Wilt the Stilt Chamberlain. Thomas cleared 7 feet 2 1/4 inches. That would clear the towering basketball player.

'Ultimate Marks' Have Been Beaten

Brutus Hamilton, then the California coach, in the mid-1930's listed what he considered the ultimate marks in track and field, the 4-minute mile, etc. All have been broken, which is something in the way of evidence that there is no limit.

Martin is one of the two biggest athletes ever to sail over a crossbar. He stands six feet four and weighs 195 pounds. Don Bragg, holder of the American indoor record at 15-9 1/4, is six-three, comes in at 198.

"Because of his height, Martin has a greater pendulum swing than the average vaulter," explains Coach Carroll of the Sooners. "Martin has tremendous strength in his shoulders, arms and stomach."

He has vaulted 15 feet or better 10 times this year, broken a record in every meet.

Because of a technicality, Bob Gutowski's American record was not approved by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, so the official world mark, which has to be established outdoors, is the former Occidental star's 15-8 1/4, hung up at Stanford in April of 1957.

For years Cornelius Warmerdam was the only man who ever vaulted 15 feet. His record 15-7 1/4 stood for 15 years.

The 16-foot barrier was considered impossible. But with young fellows like J. D. Martin coming along, it won't be long now.

If pitcher Larry Jay of Sooke ever gets safely by the sixth inning of a Central Park Senior Softball League game he will probably consider it a happy day.

For in two succeeding games now, Jay has completely handcuffed the opposition for five innings—only to have them break through with a vengeance and completely ruin his efforts in that fatal sixth inning.

That's what happened Tuesday, as Farmers came on strong in the final stages to rout Sooke, 9-2. The win moved Farmers into a first-place tie with Mayos.

Two errors and two singles caused all the damage in the sixth frame as Farmers overcame Sooke's early 2-0 lead with four runs.

TIGHT RACE

The Heywood Avenue Park League meanwhile, seems to be developing into quite a battle. With each team having three games under its belt, none has remained unbeaten.

On Tuesday Pro Pats, winless in two starts, stopped Chinese Students, who hadn't lost a game, 7-5.

Gerry Mesher almost ruined his first win in the eighth when he walked four men. But, with men on second and third, he struck out Eddie Lou to retire the side and end the shortened game.

Dave Reany proved to be a powerhouse at the plate for the Pro Pats as he banged out

CYCLE PIONEER

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Erwin G. (Cannon Ball) Baker, 78, a pioneer motorcycle and auto racer, died Tuesday after suffering a heart attack.

UCT Makes Best Of Free Passes

It takes control.

That was the lesson to be gained from Tuesday's Babe Ruth League game in which UCT beat Menzies, 8-3.

Both teams got only two hits apiece, and UCT committed seven errors—four more than the eventual losers. But Ken James, pitching for UCT, refused to walk a batter. And Mike Hart and Henry Klatt, on the Menzies mound, allowed 12 walks.

That was the difference. In the Evening Optimist Babe Ruth League, pitcher Norm Billsborough of Pattersons deserved an "A" for effort but it was to no avail as his team bowed, 10-5, to Brotherhood of Painters.

Billsborough yielded six hits but Russ Tyrrell, on the BOP mound, gave up nine. In addition, the Pattersons pitcher got three hits—one more than Tyrrell—in his trips to the plate.

Two-Mile Record For Vic High Star

Records started to tumble almost as soon as Victoria High School's inter-house track and field meet opened.

John Valiant turned in what will undoubtedly be one of the outstanding performances of the meet when he won the two-mile race Tuesday in what is believed to be a British Columbia high school record time.

Valiant broke the tape in 9 minutes 58 seconds, inches ahead of John Cliff, who was one-tenth of a second slower. The former British Columbia mark was 10:06.

The third runner also broke the former standard when Alf Lincoln was timed in 10:05.

School Vosburgh broke the school record for the junior boys' high jump with a leap of 5 feet 5 1/2 inches, a scant 1/4 inch better than the former mark.

All finals will be held Friday afternoon, starting at 1:30 p.m. Oak Bay will also hold its inter-house finals at that time.

TIMES EVENT MAY 21-23

Cy Can't Wait For Island Roll

Announcement of the Times Vancouver Island five-pin bowling championships was hardly out when Cy Waters tossed in his entry.

Waters won the recent 20-game Capitol City marathon and is hoping that his hot streak will continue at the Esquimalt Bowladrome May 21-23.

When he bowls in the Island championships, however, he will only have to roll five games in trying for the scratch and handicap singles title.

IN DOUBLES, TOO!

Waters indicated that he will team up with Jack Goldie in the doubles, providing him with three additional games, and making him eligible for the handicap doubles and aggregate titles.

Except in the scratch singles chase, tourney entrants will be working with a 70 per cent of handicap allowance, based on 250 scratch. Bowlers may enter both singles and doubles for $425 and there will be a 100 per cent return of prize money.

Bowling during the three-day period will be from noon to midnight. Competitors are asked to state their preference as to times when they enter.

Entries may be made by mail or telephone to Esquimalt manager Bert Nelson. He may be reached at EV 4-9423 or 1225 Esquimalt Road.

Out-of-town entries will be given preference of times.

Beatings in Jail Charged Against Vancouver Police

'NEW BLOOD' NEEDED FOR CLINIC

Prisoners and staff at the William Head minimum security institution volunteered blood at a special Red Cross clinic this afternoon in the prison.

Tonight, a clinic will be held at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street, from 7 to 9:30 and Thursday donations may be made from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m.

Officials emphasized that they particularly needed new donors to supplement the efforts of regulars who largely supplied the 10,000 pints per annum needed by the Red Cross.

Saanich Okays Fund Transfer For Hall Site

Saanich public works committee will recommend to council passage of a bylaw authorizing transfer of $33,000 from reverted lands-sale fund for the purchase of a six-acre site on Douglas for a proposed new municipal hall.

Purchase of the site bounded by Douglas, Vernon and Swan Lake was approved by the committee Tuesday.

The committee acting on instructions from council is planning ahead future capital expenditures which will become necessary with the expansion of the municipality.

Coun. Leslie Passmore was the sole opponent for the plan. He believes that a referendum should be held first to determine whether taxpayers are in favor of acquiring the site.

VANCOUVER—City police Tuesday were investigating the claims of a Toronto jeweller and a Vancouver warehouseman that they were beaten by police in city jail.

The investigation was started under the supervision of Deputy Chief Constable Gordon Ambrose. The beatings allegedly took place early last Friday while the men were being held on drunk charges.

The Toronto man, Lionel Victor Bourgeault, 29, has signed a statutory declaration in which he declares he was assaulted.

The other, Cliff Smith, 27, was to sign a similar declaration today.

Both men were acquitted of the charges of drunkenness Saturday.

Smith told reporters and police he was kicked in the groin while Bourgeault, manager of a jewelry store, said he was punched twice in the left eye.

The men said police have refused to give them the names and numbers of policemen on jail duty who they claim beat them.

Bourgeault said he is on leave of absence from his firm and plans to stay here to press the matter.

TOT DROWNS IN SEA

SOINTULA—Patricia Tyde-man, 18 months, was drowned while playing with a neighbor's small son near this community on Malcolm Island, 175 miles northwest of Vancouver. Her mother, Mrs. Wilma Tyde-man, found the children at the edge of the sea but was too late to revive her daughter.

TRUCKER ATTACKED

PORT MANN—A truck driver engaged in an all-night highway project near here was attacked Tuesday, the second workman on the project to be assaulted in two days.

Driver Robert Young said two men approached his truck on the Port Mann Freeway, one from either side. One of the men was stopped by a locked door but the other reached through an open window on the other side.

Young struck the man with a piece of two-by-four and the pair fled.

Tractor operator Ralph Mel-enchuk was punched in the face early Monday by one of three men who objected to the noise of machines on the project.

TV THIS FALL

TRAIL—Trail's CBC television transmitter will be in operation this fall, CBC president J. Alphonse Oulmet has informed the Chamber of Commerce. After months of negotiation, the corporation has been given authority to build the transmitter on land leased from the provincial government.

'LIVE FOR SPEED'

PRINCE GEORGE—An 18-year-old youth spoke the words "I live for speed" minutes before he died in a car accident April 17, two witnesses testified Tuesday.

The testimony came at a preliminary hearing into a charge of criminal negligence against Harvey Howard Burkhardt, driver of the car in which Richard George Torgerson met his death.

Two other youths who were passengers in the car told the court that Torgerson made the statement three or four times and had been urging Burkhardt to drive faster just before the accident.

The car hit a soft shoulder on the road, went out of control and rolled over. Torgerson was thrown 35 feet and died shortly afterwards while the other three escaped serious injury.

BRITAIN LEARNED BIG LESSON

'Lead Our Colonies To Self-Government'

When America broke her ties with the British Commonwealth she taught Britain "a lesson we never forgot," Sir Saville Garner, United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada, said Tuesday afternoon.

"Ever since that break we have followed a pattern of leading out colonies on to self-government," he told a crowded joint meeting of the Men's and Women's Canadian Clubs in the Empress Hotel.

"These countries develop their own standards of self-government and fit into the general British pattern without necessarily conforming to it."

Sir Saville called for "tolerance, understanding and patience" in dealing with the problems of South Africa.

"Remember our Commonwealth is the greatest international experiment the world has ever seen. It is compounded of so many different races, faiths and customs it is almost miraculous we get along as well as we do."

BIG ROLE

The high commissioner said the Commonwealth still has "a tremendous part" to play in the conflict between the free world and Communism and there is no sign that its influence is lessening.

"The British Commonwealth is flexible. It is changing constantly but it is not passing away."

Sir Saville said Britain conducts 40 per cent of its world trade with Commonwealth countries and has strong sentimental ties with all of them.

"We are really a very sentimental people," he said, "but we never admit it."

Times publisher Stuart Keate introduced the speaker.

King Re-Elected President Of Naturalists

A program to increase the membership and activities of the Victoria Natural History Society was approved Tuesday at the annual meeting.

Members also approved a donation of $25 to the University of Victoria Building Fund. The society re-elected Freeman King as president, David Stirling vice-president, Mrs. Irene Latimer, secretary, and Mrs. A. R. Davidson, treasurer. Chairmen of the various working groups are as follows: Mrs. E. G. Bousefield, program; Mrs. M. C. Melburn, Miss Emily Sartain, botany; Mrs. A. G. Gosling, membership; Mrs. A. E. Soulsby, federation; T. Briggs, ornithology; Miss Enid Lemon, Audubon; Dr. Clifford Carl, zoology; Mrs. J. R. Parris and J. H. C. Palmer, conservation; Freeman King, Mrs. Ernest Osborne, juniors.

An illustrated talk on the desert life of Palm Springs was given by Mrs. Mayford Slocum, while Francis Park showed a film on Thetis Lake Park and Francis Park.

Motorist Nearly Hit Policeman

A motorist accused of nearly running down a Saanich policeman was fined $250 and his driver's licence was suspended when found guilty in Saanich court Tuesday of impaired driving.

John Pulyk, 723 Yates, was arrested after he drove erratically on Patricia Bay Highway and Douglas, following closely behind another vehicle.

Police said he continued for about two blocks after a following police car sounded its siren, then headed for Cpl. Frank Briers who waved the motorist toward the curb with his flashlight.

JUMPED BACK

"I had to jump back to avoid being struck," Cpl. Briers said. Pulyk told the court, as he told a doctor who examined him after he was stopped, that he had drunk only two glasses of beer in the previous hour, nothing before and nothing after his arrest.

Magistrate William Ostler said it was "absurd" that two beers could produce the signs of driving and behavior described by police, an independent driver and the doctor.

A pocket watch and gold chain valued at $75 were stolen from his room Monday evening, Benjamin Davis, 1017 Burdett, told city detectives at 10:35 p.m.

Police said it appeared someone walked into a bedroom and pocketed the watch, which was engraved on the back with the owner's initials.

TO WRITE IS RIGHT on both sides of the border, as students from Eureka, Calif., and Sir James Douglas School, Victoria, found out today. Despite

CALIFORNIA STUDENTS HERE TO GET THE FACTS

'Book-Learning' Is Hard Work So Why Not Study First-Hand?

Forty-six schoolboys and girls from Eureka, Calif., are visiting Victoria today in the course of a unique travelling study period.

All Grade Six students, among their studies this year is that of Canada.

So the school principal, Ella Quarnheim, devised the idea of actually visiting the country of their studies.

The pupils themselves, by holding concerts, collecting pop bottles, raised $1,054 toward the cost of a seven-day bus-and-airplane trip through the Pacific Northwest, culminating here.

$55 EACH Each of the 46 was also assessed $55 to cover the all-inclusive tour.

In addition to touring the city and nearby beauty spots, the Eureka students sat in with their counterparts at Sir James Douglas School today.

Thursday the visitors will hear the real facts about the Royal Canadian Mounted Police from an "E" Division officer.

Schoolgirl Angela Jones, 13, of 2144 Quimper, is in "fairly good" condition at Jubilee Hospital today with head injuries received when thrown to the street by a "pinto-chasing car" on Monterey at 3:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Oak Bay police said the girl walked south along the west sidewalk near Woodlawn when a car driven by James W. Powell, 18, of 638 Monterey, went out of control, plunged over the sidewalk, snapped off a power pole and swerved toward the girl.

A charge against a Victoria man for keeping a noisy dog was dismissed in city police court today when it was discovered the complainant left town immediately after making the complaint and is not expected back until the end of June.

Gerald F. Hewlett had pleaded not guilty to the charge and when the Crown's chief witness was not available for the trial, prosecutor T. P. O'Grady said he would call no evidence.

The 100-piece Clover Park High School Band and Orchestra from Tacoma, Wash., will give a concert Thursday at 8 p.m. at Oak Bay High School.

The concert is sponsored by the Oak Bay High School band and tickets may be purchased from any member of that group or at the door.

A meeting of the Newfoundland Club will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street.

The Sons of Norway will hold their annual May 17 celebrations May 14 at 8 p.m. in Norway House.

Japanese Judge Sees How It's Done Here

Traffic cases are beginning to congest Japanese courts as they do here.

This observation was made today by Associate Judge Yoshimatsu Yamada, of the district court at Nagoya, Japan, who joined Magistrate William Ostler on the bench of city police court today.

The visitor is travelling in Canada and the U.S. on a United Nations fellowship, mainly to study traffic court procedure where motorists are many.

"Our traffic problem is becoming great in Japan," the judge said after viewing procedure in three traffic cases, a bootlegging matter and a by-law violation concerning a noisy dog.

NEW IDEAS He said he will take back to Japan new ideas for the handling of traffic cases and relieve the burden on overworked courts.

Traffic cases today account for 80 per cent of what the judge referred to as "criminal cases" in Japanese courts.

He has been on this continent 3½ months and has studied procedure in the major cities of the coast.

In Vancouver Judge Yamada visited the United Nations visual training centre at UBC, of which he is a member.

When his western visits are completed he will make a similar tour of eastern seaboard cities, returning to Japan in mid-June.

He observed that generally sentences for traffic violations are heavier here than at home; that few jail terms would be imposed for a traffic offence in Japan.

Moments earlier, Magistrate Ostler sentenced a man to 65 days in jail for two violations of a driver's licence suspension.

In Japan only juvenile courts suspend licences, which are usually left to the control of licensing authorities.

Fine of $300 For Bootlegger

A Chinese was fined $300 in city police court today for keeping for sale an estimated $333 worth of beer, wine and liquor May 1.

Lim Yick, 538 Fisgard, was charged after a raid on his premises at 9 Sunday morning. He had sold a plainclothes policeman two bottles of wine for $2 each, Cons. Keith Hollett told the court.

In the raid by uniform officers, 48 dozen beer, 68 bottles of wine, seven large and 10 small bottles of gin, rum and rye whisky were seized for confiscation.

The accused pleaded guilty through counsel.

It's Mother's Way To Show Gratitude

A charter member of the women's auxiliary to the cerebral palsy clinic here, which raised $3,600 last year for the Cerebral Palsy Association of B.C., is Mrs. E. V. Darling, 1140 Woodstock.

In addition to belonging to the 38-member auxiliary and helping with observance of Cerebral Palsy Week, which ends Saturday, she works one morning each week at the clinic in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

BOUQUET FOR MRS. VANIER AT CITY HALL

Solarium Picks Flower Girl

A 10-year-old former Queen Alexandra Solarium patient will take part in the civic welcome for Governor-General and Mrs. George Vanier Tuesday outside City Hall.

Linda Ball, 896 Falaire, daughter of city fireman Ed Ball, will present a bouquet to Mrs. Vanier following addresses of welcome in ceremonies starting at 11 a.m.

She was chosen for the honor by Solarium officials at the request of officials in charge of civic arrangements for the two-day visit.

The Governor-General's

party will arrive for the short ceremony after being welcomed officially by Premier W. A. C. Bennett outside the Legislative Buildings, and inpecting a guard-of-honor.

BAND TO PLAY

The 50-piece Mount View High School band under Howard Denike will play for half an hour before the ceremony, due to take place on a special platform outside City Hall.

Mayor Percy Scourrah will present an illuminated address and welcome the Governor-General.

Major-General Vanier is expected to establish a precedent for royal and vice-regal visitors at receptions of this kind by replying to the address after which Linda will present the bouquet to Mrs. Vanier.

Following presentation of the reeves of surrounding municipalities and their wives, the vice-regal party will sign the civic distinguished visitors book.

Archbishop Hits S. Africa, U.S.

'Die Together If We Can't Live Together'

Archbishop Harold Sexton today criticized the United States for permitting an aerial reconnaissance over Russian territory on the eve of the summit conference in Paris, opening next Monday.

"He accused the South African government of 'maintaining the white man's supremacy by harsh and cruel methods' and announced that May 31 will be set aside as a Day of Prayer for South Africa."

In his charge to the 58th session of the Anglican Diocesan Synod of British Columbia meeting here, the archbishop also criticized "certain Christian bodies" for admitting women into the church ministry.

The archbishop's outspoken comments on world affairs came at the start of the Diocesan Synod (the parliament of the Anglican Church) which is being attended by 65 clergy and some 200 laymen from all parts of Vancouver Island and adjacent islands.

"UNFORTUNATE" He said it was "most unfortunate" that on the eve of the summit conference "an aircraft belonging to the United States should have been engaged in a reconnaissance over Russian territory."

"President Eisenhower, and others in positions of authority, are reported to have engaged in prayer on Sunday last for the success of the summit conference."

"While they are to be commended for so doing, some of them apparently need to realize that the aim of our lives must agree with the prayers of our lips."

DYING TOGETHER "There is only one alternative to the solution of the problem of living together today, and that is dying together."

"It would therefore seem to be a question of mere common sense to say that, while clinging tenaciously to our Christian way of life, we have to live at peace and in good will with people who represent other ideologies."

"However deep may be the divisions between peoples and nations today, collective existence — the possibility of living together in peace — is the intensely urgent problem."

UNLOCK RIDDLE "And, if the Christian faith is the truth, then we Christians have a key to unlock the riddle of history, if we would wake up while we have time."

"Our actions must fit the content of our faith."

Of the South African government's policy of apartheid against its colored peoples, the archbishop said:

"It is an appalling situation and we may well blush at the knowledge that it has taken place within the British Commonwealth. . . . The country would seem to be nothing more than a police state at the present time."

The archbishop said that of the world's three billion people, at least two billion are colored.

SHEER MADNESS "Remembering, that, it is sheer madness to provoke any form of racial conflict, and the South African government is seemingly making a terrible rod for its own back by its apartheid policy. . . ."

The Anglican Church in South Africa, he said, has taken "a definite and valiant stand."

"The Bishop of Johannesburg, being in imminent danger of arrest, had been persuaded to leave the country, but it was hoped that the Archbishop of Capetown would be 'free to continue in his responsible post and to continue his vigorous campaign against racial intolerance and persecution.'"

"In my opinion the leaders of our church in South Africa are at this moment writing one of the most splendid annals in the history of the church."

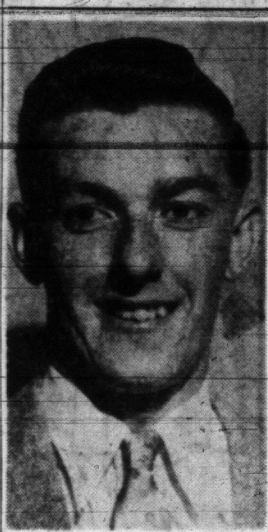

He said the Union of South Africa would commemorate its jubilee on May 31. The South African government wanted to make this a great national festival, but the Church had set its face against turning this into a jollification.

PRAY MAY 31

"We should be immensely strengthened if this day were set apart as a Day of Prayer by the whole Anglican communion," the archbishop told the Synod, "and I venture to ask you to summon your people to pray for South Africa on May 31."

The archbishop's criticism of women in the ministry came after he had spoken of growing unity between Christian groups, particularly between Anglicans and Methodists in England. He said:

"The prospects of Christian unity have not been improved by the readiness of certain Christian bodies to admit women into the ministry, and you are all aware, of course, of the controversy which has arisen in Sweden in the matter."

TWO ISLAND STUDENTS have been selected to visit the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival in July as guests of the Canada Council. Education Minister Peterson said Tuesday that 23 B.C. students will make the trip, sponsored by the council. Three teachers will act as chaperones. Delmar Clark (above), 3334 Wascana, of Mount View High School, and Virginia Ruth LeFevre of Duncan High School will be the island's representatives. — (Times Photo)

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What exactly does automation mean? B.R.

A. The term is applied to machinery which takes the place of manpower. . . . machines rather than people.

Q. Can you tell me the names of the three pagan gods the letters IHS, used in churches, stand for? The "I" is for Isis. H.K.

A. IHS is actually a corruption of the Greek letters forming the first three letters of the word "Jesus".

Cut Down Cleaning Chores With These Burner Guards

By PENNY SAVER

With the hectic round of PTA meetings, auxiliary teas, church affairs and other "do's" the average housewife contends with these days, any shortcut in house cleaning is welcome. Cleaning of kitchen stove is cut to a minimum when you have some of the aluminum burner guards that sell at 50 cents a package.

Guards fit all size ranges and are easy to install. Simply lift up burner and slip into place. There are packages that contain two large and two small guards for use with electric ranges. Four guards of the same size are in package for use on gas ranges. Another advantage is saving in cooking time achieved by their use.

Aluminum guards reflect heat to cooking pot and cut minutes off cooking time.

Good news for housewives who've been looking for sets of copper animal cookie cutters. These are now available in a city store. Set includes a chicken, horse, rabbit, lion and dog. You'll have a tough time keeping the cookie jar full when you shape goodies with these cutters! Sets sell at 79 cents.

Popular sets of bridge cookie cutters including hearts, diamonds, spades, clubs and circles, are available in copper too. Packages sell for 79 cents.

Adjustable casserole stands that are on sale this week will dress up dining room table and allow you to serve meal in dishes used for baking. Stands are of aluminum, hammered to form an attractive pattern, with polished wooden handles and spring base.

Dish will keep warm longer because of insulation provided by springs. Smart stands formerly sold for $2.29 but are on "special" this week. New price—$1.49.

For information on any of these items phone Penny at EV 2-3131.

Traditional dark fruit cake is basis of this ornamental wedding cake to honor the bride on her day of days.

English Fruit Cake Perfect for Wedding

A rich three-tiered dark fruit cake to grace the bride's table can be easily baked and decorated at home.

As with all English wedding cakes, each layer gets a thin coating of almond paste first, then the entire cake is covered with glistening white frosting. When this is firm, hearts, flowers and other motifs are piped all over it. Confectioners' sugar and egg white frosting is used.

The cake is so rich with sugar, dried fruits and spice it will keep for months—even years.

At the wedding, top layer is often set aside to be stored until the christening of the first child.

THREE-TIER ENGLISH WEDDING CAKE

Grease the following tier cake pans well and line bottom and sides with brown paper and set aside: one pan, 9 1/2 x 12 inches; one pan, 7 1/2 x 12 inches; one pan, 4 1/2 x 12 inches.

Make 2 batches of the cake recipe below. Turn the batter from one batch into the 9 1/2 x 12-inch pan. Bake in a preheated very slow oven (275-degrees F) 3 1/2 hours or until a cake tester inserted in centre comes out clean, having a large shallow pan hot water in oven on rack underneath cake. Turn second batch of batter into remaining two pans, filling them to within half-inch from top of pan. (This type fruit cake rises very little.) Bake 7 1/2 x 12-inch cake 2 1/2 hours or until cake tests done; 4 1/2 x 12-inch cake 1 1/2 hours. Cool cakes in pans 30 minutes. Turn out on wire rack to finish cooling. Frost as in directions below.

To Make the Cake: Combine 2 cups (1 1/2 lb.) coarsely chopped pecans, 2 cups (11 oz.) blanched whole almonds, 8 cups (2 1/4 lb.) seedless raisins, coarsely chopped; 6 cups (3 lb.) mixed glacé fruit, 1 cup mild-flavored molasses and 1 cup hot water (this softens fruit). Let stand while preparing remaining ingredients.

Soften 1 cup butter or margarine and blend with 1 teaspoon each ground cinnamon and nutmeg, 1/4 teaspoon each baking soda and ground allspice, and 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves. Gradually mix in 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar. Beat in 6 eggs, one at a time. Blend 1/4 cup flour with fruit and nuts and stir into mixture. Add flour alternately with 1/2 cup red wine or milk. Mix well. Bake according to above directions. Yield: Each batch

DEAR ABBY

Oh, Man!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a young man of 24. I have been dating a certain girl (she is 26) for a couple of months. I date other girls, too, but I date this one more than the others.

I am not in love with her, but I think she is in love with me. She is very free with her kisses. This gives me doubts about her. I am not a saint, but I do have high moral standards. Is it true that a girl who is always grabbing your hand (to hold) and asking you to kiss her is "loose"? Don't get me wrong. I wouldn't want a cold fish, but I think it's the man's place to make the advances. Or am I wrong?

DOUBTING YOUNG MAN.

DEAR DOUBTFUL: You are far from wrong. The young lady appears to be too forward for your taste. Don't let her get too palsy walsy, or you're apt to find yourself on the awkward end of a Leap Year proposal.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is not very good at spelling and I don't know whether or not he wants me to help him. If he does, shud I?

BASHFULL
DEAR "BASHFULL": Not if you like him.

DEAR ABBY: Am I being unreasonable to want at least a dollar a week allowance to spend or to save? We live on a farm and my husband takes the egg and cream money and I never see it. He doesn't even let me buy my own groceries. Oh, yes, I can go and pick them out, but he is right behind me with the money purse to pay for them.

Most farm wives are allowed to buy groceries and if there is a nickel left over, they can keep it.

When I ask for a dollar he gives me a look as if I were out of my mind. He spends that much each week for his smokes. I neither smoke nor drink. I am not a spend-thrift and am so hurt over this. Please advise me.

FARM WIFE
DEAR WIFE: If a wife proves that she is capable of handling money, she should certainly have an allowance to spend or to save. Some husbands use money as a weapon. Handing out a dollar at a time makes them feel powerful and superior. If a wife must humble herself and beg for every penny, it is a pretty good bet that her husband feels inferior in other ways, and is trying to punish her for his own shortcomings. Work towards a better understanding with your husband in other areas. As the heart-strings loosen, maybe the purse-strings will, too.

Confidential to "scared stiff": Tell your teacher. Or your principal. Or a relative. Or a policeman—but do not let another day go by without telling someone who will report him to the local law-enforcing authorities.

"What is your problem?" Write to Abby in care of this paper. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-Agers Want To Know", send 25c and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of this paper.

Many Victorians to Attend Ball

Annual Armed Services Ball to be held on May 20 in HMCS Naden gymnasium, will be limited to 750 persons in order that everyone may be seated for the cabaret style affair.

"Reservations are therefore on a first come first served basis," a committee member warns, "so it would be wise to take them up as early as possible."

Among those who have already notified their intentions to attend the affair are:

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. R. Stelck, Mr. and Mrs. W. Braithwaite, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Morrison, Dr. and Mrs. Douglas Leechman, Mr. and Mrs. Jack House, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Lyle, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Lougher-Goodey, Brig. and Mrs. J. F. A. Lister, Mr. and Mrs. James Moody, Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Trenholme, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hess, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Duffy, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Arsen, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Bryson, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Laird, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Laing, Mr. and Mrs. J. Crompton, Capt. and Mrs. W. R. Stacey, Mr. and Mrs. K. Lowndes, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Burke, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bonnell and Mr. J. Booth and Mrs. M. Kendall.

Also going are Capt. and Mrs. W. B. Holms, Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell, Commissioned Officer H. J. Law, R.C.N. and Mrs. Law, Mr. and Mrs. A. Westinghouse, Dr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Homer, Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Roper, Mr. and Mrs. W. Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Johnston, Sub-Lt. A. D. Mildon, R.C.N. Mr. and Mrs. H. G. McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. M. SAFE WAS BLOWN AFTER ALL

Blast Ripped Paper Money, Bent Coins

NANAIMO—A supermarket safe, believed to hold live explosive following an attempt to open it Sunday night, was found Tuesday afternoon to have been blown after all.

A Vancouver expert opened the safe, which had been under police guard since Monday morning, and found the explosion had damaged part of the $1,200 in currency in the safe.

Force of the blast had bent silver coins. Paper money was torn and money bags ripped apart.

It was originally felt that a blasting cap on the safe, in Townsite Super-Valu, had failed to detonate and that the charge was unexploded.

NANAIMO (CP)—A $150,000 loan made by city council here in 1912 has cost taxpayers $375,000 in interest charges.

"We often overlook the tax load that interest requires when considering borrowing," Ald. Jack Parker told city council in discussing the loan.

The 50-year borrowing will be cleared in 1962.

LADYSMITH—Ladysmith Fish and Game Association will not stage a coho derby this year.

Decision to discontinue the popular annual event was made by club members because of a lack of public support and difficulty in getting an organizing committee.

Don McKay was named chairman of a committee to organize a "safari" to Buttle Lake with June 12 as the suggested date. Idea is to arrange a car caravan to visit the fishing area over a weekend.

CHEMINUS—The Rotary Club will stage a giant public dance in the Community Centre Hall in June with all proceeds to go to the fund for construction of a children's ward at Chemainus Hospital.

Special attraction at the dance will be the orchestra of Dal Richards from Vancouver.

The club will invest $1,000 of its bursary fund in short-term Dominion of Canada bonds.

SOOKE—Promotion of Sooke RCMP Constable Patrick Eastman to the rank of corporal was announced today.

The new rank, effective from May 1, follows the revised establishment of Sooke detachment, a one-man jurisdiction extended to include Port Renfrew.

GALIANO—Work has started on a new post office here, to cost $15,702, and is scheduled for completion by July 1.

Successful bidder was D. C. Festing & Sons, Haney, which is using local labor on the job wherever possible.

VANCOUVER—The ashes of a former chief electrician on the Canadian Pacific Railway ferry Princess of Vancouver were scattered on the waters of Georgia Strait off Protection Island Tuesday.

Charles Mackie, 56, who died in March, had asked that his ashes be scattered near his favorite fishing grounds near Nanaimo.

LAKE COWICHAN—Joe Bohemer has been elected president of the Lake Cowichan Kinamen Club.

Other officers are: Vice-president, Dr. J. Morrow; secretary, Bill Cross; treasurer, Pat Riley; registrar, Malkit Singh; directors, Dr. D. Sharp, Alan Vance and Ross Scott.

CHIEF-ELECT of Nanaimo Indian Band is Daniel Brown, 47, fisherman and father of seven children. Badge of office is ceremonial headdress made of human hair, with towering banner. Elected to council of 410-member band were Richard Wyse, William Seward, Willis Good and Mrs. Douglas White. Election was held under scrutiny of Indian Affairs branch office in Nanaimo. NEW COMMERCIAL FISHING PLAN UNVEILED

'Free Passage' Plea by Rossellini

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—A state-sponsored plan to iron out commercial fishing disagreements between the United States and Canada was unveiled Tuesday by Governor Albert Rossellini of Washington.

State fisheries director Milo Moore, who developed the proposal, said it is designed to continue in effect the three-mile territorial limit as it affects the fishing industry and develop closer co-operation between the two countries on fishing problems.

He said the plan is in the form of a memorandum of understanding which could be adopted by the United States and Canada without the need for an international treaty.

The plan calls for co-operation between Canada, the United States, the states of Alaska, Washington, Oregon, California and Idaho, and two international fisheries agencies on setting of seasons, regulation of fishing gear, salmon research and study and other related problems.

It also urges free passage of fishing craft to and from the territorial waters of each country and freedom to enter ports of either nation.

Moore said the "free passage" section, contained in a declaration of intent, is aimed at elimination of certain restrictions placed on United States fishing vessels passing through Canadian waters on their way to Alaska and other points.

Logging Tax Upheld On Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's Logging Tax Act has been upheld by the provincial Court of Appeal after being declared unconstitutional last September by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Five appeal judges found Monday that the statute does not conflict with the federal-provincial tax-sharing agreement.

But they agreed with Mr. Justice Manson's ruling that it does not apply to income received by Royal D. Alworth, Jr., of Duluth, Minn., from the sale of timber from property he owns at Nanoose Bay on Vancouver Island.

Alworth contended he was not liable because he is not engaged in actual logging operations.

His holdings comprise about 25,000 acres of a tract now owned by his family, originally purchased by his father after the First World War.

The government claimed he was liable for a levy under the tax act on payments he received from MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., which did the logging on his property.

HE WOULD BE DESTROYED INSTANTLY

DUNCAN (CP)—Sir Philip Livingston, former director-general of RAF medical services, said here Tuesday night it would be "utterly impossible" for a pilot to bail out of a supersonic U-2 plane without using his ejection equipment.

Sir Philip, now living in retirement here, said Russian Premier Khrushchev's story of shooting down the U.S. plane over Russian territory May 1 and capturing the pilot is "unbelievable."

Sir Philip, a leading medical authority on jet flying, said: "There are many things that could have happened. But the story from Russia just doesn't make sense."

"It is utterly impossible for a pilot to bail out without using ejection equipment. He would be destroyed instantly by the slipstream and air pressure."

He added that should the pilot survive this impossibility, he couldn't last more than 45 seconds without the oxygen equipment attached to the ejection seat.

"The frantic cold—it would be about 50 degrees below zero—is just another factor that makes survival impossible."

Sir Philip said ejection seats are designed to get the pilot out of the craft and down to an altitude of 30,000 feet before the parachute opens.

Reports from Moscow indicate Francis Powers, 30, pilot of the U-2 shot down May 1, was flying at about 60,000 feet when the plane was destroyed.

"If he (Powers) ran into engine trouble he could come down to 4,000 or 5,000 feet, stall his craft, roll over and bail out."

"But this is a different matter than being hit with a missile at supersonic speeds," said Sir Philip.

"Critics of the U.S. government are most unjust. I don't doubt that Russian planes have been flying over Canada and we would be foolish not to know what is happening inside Russia."

"We have a long way to go before we get to the bottom of this incident."

TAX PACT INVALIDATED

Big Lumber Company To Pay 'Fair Share'

PORT ALBERNI (CP)—A fixed-assessment agreement which McMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Limited held with the city was invalidated Tuesday at a special meeting of the cabinet here.

Premier Bennett said the proclamation of Bill 88 means the company will now pay a "fair share" of school taxes.

The announcement was received with applause by city representatives and delegates who were present to take briefs to the cabinet.

The agreement, authorized in 1945 by a special order-in-council, had five years more to run.

It had stood up through the British Columbia Appeal Court and the Supreme Court of Canada despite the city's attempts to have it set aside. The city contended that it was abrogated by the Equalization of Assessment Act, passed by the B.C. legislature in 1958.

The agreement set assessments at $800,000 on the Alberni Pulp and Paper division property where land and equipment is currently valued at more than $32,000,000.

Premier Bennett and the cabinet received a number of local briefs when they met members of the public following the closed morning session.

Several of the briefs, including one from CCF MLA John Squire, dealt with roads. Mr. Squire urged access roads to the west coast of the Island.

Volkswagen makes sense for you—Here's why!

⊗ Volkswagen's engine is air-cooled, an astonishing advantage when you think about it. No water to boil over in summer. No water to freeze in winter. Owners say the VW engine seems to go on forever with so little effort, fuel or attention. Friction and stress are so low, in fact, that a VW can cruise at 70 all day long without any over-exertion.

⊗ Volkswagen is great fun to drive; agile and highly responsive, with one of the smoothest stick shifts in the business. It's 4 feet shorter than conventional cars, yet holds 4 adults, with a surprising amount of room.

⊗ Volkswagen's suspension is different; all-independent by torsion bars. It gives you uncanny control over rough roads (no bump-bump-bump). And the new anti-sway bar eliminates swing and sway on curves. The engine in the back gives the Volkswagen superb traction. In mud, sand, ice, snow, where other cars skid, you go.

⊗ Obviously, this is a classic design that is not to be changed just for the sake of change. The Volkswagen you buy today will remain in style long after other cars have come and gone.

⊗ One of the things designed right into the Volkswagen is easy, low-cost maintenance. The car is so well conceived that its engine can be removed and replaced in only 90 minutes.

⊗ And best of all: the price of a Volkswagen is much lower than you would expect. No wonder, then, Volkswagen is the largest selling import in North America—by far.

Secret Agreement Denied In Grave Marker Quarrel

A spokesman for local cemeteries Tuesday denied there was any secret agreement or "conspiracy" with manufacturers of grave markers.

Lawyer Allan Cox, appearing before the Public Utilities Commission on behalf of Hatley Memorial Gardens and two up-Island cemeteries, said his clients "have decided on certain specifications" for grave markers and markers made by a Pittsburgh firm "happen to best meet these specifications."

At an earlier session of the PUC hearing into cemetery practices here Tuesday, a brief from Mortimer's Monumental Works of Victoria had charged that the Jas. H. Matthews Co. of Pittsburgh was the sole supplier of bronze grave markers to the three memorial garden type cemeteries on the Island.

CANT CRACK IT

The brief suggested there was a monopoly or "conspiracy" between the parties, and that local marker makers couldn't crack the market.

"If others come along just as good and at just as good a price," said Mr. Cox, "I don't think they'd have any trouble getting into our cemetery."

He said the public could choose with which cemetery it dealt and was made aware of cemetery "regulations."

The cemeteries were not seeking a monopoly, he said, but felt they must maintain certain standards and regulations.

NO JURISDICTION

Even if any restrictive trade practices did exist, he suggested, the PUC would have no jurisdiction to deal with them.

Arguments about high costs of markers and the so-called monopoly were "clouded". The critics—monument manufacturers—were simply after business they sought to destroy.

"We don't have to disprove any charges," said Mr. Cox.

He was backed by Alan Macfarlane, representing cemeteries in Vancouver, who challenged a statement in the Victoria brief that the Matthews firm had faced criminal indictments in the U.S.

DISMISSED?

"They can't tell us if the indictment was ever proceeded with... it may have been dismissed."

"I don't know that my clients sell Matthews markers exclusively," he said. "But I am sure there is no conspiracy."

Commission chairman Dr. H. F. Angus asked if there was any difference in types of bronze or other markers supplied by the U.S. firm and by local firms.

G. A. Arnold of Forest Lawn Cemetery in Vancouver said there was and that a certain standard was desirable. (The standard is prescribed in a set formula for composition of the bronze which local manufacturers say is made hard to meet.)

Mr. Arnold also said granite claimed by manufacturers as the best marker material and marble did not always weather well, and were found not as satisfactory as bronze.

GRANITE FAVORED

Reeve Don Morton of North Cowichan, chairman of that municipality's cemetery commission, told the hearing both bronze and granite markers were used in his municipal cemetery and granite was popularly favored.

Dr. Angus commented that there were "rigid specifications" for the bronze markers.

"If they are to serve some purpose other than the protection of the public, then the commission would have to recommend they disappear."

Local manufacturers of all types of marker complained that because of the bronze might be.

formula and an extra charge of up to more than $90 for "setting" the marker in concrete they were "beat" by the cemeteries, which were exclusive agents for the U.S. market.

PERPETUAL CARE

Spokesmen for the cemetery companies said that extra charges, however, included "perpetual care" of plots. They maintained bronze markers could be locally manufactured competitively if the manufacturers went about it the right way.

PUC secretary H. W. Mellish said the cemetery hearings now are closed—unless in the future other aspects are considered for review.

"It is quite possible the commission will make recommendations, or amend existing regulations" after the current hearings, said Mr. Mellish. He could not say, however, when this

WIFE'S RELEASE ASKED BY S. AFRICAN EDITOR

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Brian Percy Bunting, editor of the banned left-wing weekly New Age and a former member of the South African Parliament, has petitioned Justice Minister F. C. Erasmus for release of his wife "as an act of humanity."

Both husband and wife are among 1,700 persons detained under the emergency regulations. In the petition Bunting said detention meant their three children aged 7, 10 and 12 were "deprived of all parental control at a critical stage of their lives."

He said the children were being cared for by his mother, a woman of 72 who was unable to cope with them for physical reasons.

NEW LAW STUDIED FOR DISPOSAL 2,000 Lots of Ashes Without Resting Place

Thousands of ashes are lying unclaimed in B.C. crematoria, the Public Utilities Commission was told here Tuesday.

The problem of unclaimed remains and of their disposal was raised by Hayward's of Victoria, Royal Oak municipal cemetery, and cemeteries in Vancouver, where there are some 2,000 ashes without a resting place.

There are about 100 lots of

'Don't Hedge To Fight Recession'

WINNIPEG (CP)—The head of a 38-member Australian trade mission to Canada said Tuesday a nation must live a little dangerously if it wants to avoid economic stagnation.

Sir Douglas Copland told a luncheon meeting sponsored by the Manitoba government there is no point in hedging against the possibility of future recessions.

"To play for security is to stultify," Sir Douglas said. "Security is a mortal's chief enemy."

By 1970, Sir Douglas said, Australia's work force is expected to increase to 5,300,000 from 4,000,000 and the country must continue its economic expansion to provide jobs for them.

"We've weathered two recessions in the last six years with no visible impact on employment," he said, "and we must continue to operate on the basis that none will occur."

HUMPHREY WITHDRAWS

Decisive Win For Kennedy

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Senator John F. Kennedy took a giant stride today toward the Democratic nomination for president of the United States with a smashing victory in the West Virginia primary election.

The Massachusetts contender not only rolled over Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota but also knocked him out of the presidential race completely.

At 2:08 a.m. Humphrey conceded. Minutes later he issued a statement in which he said: "I am no longer a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination."

'Vote on Issue, Not Prejudice'

"I had no doubt," he said, "that you would cast your vote on the basis of the issues and not on any religious prejudice."

Kennedy jumped ahead at the start and steadily increased his margin.

With 2,059 of the 2,750 polls reporting, Kennedy had 173,113 votes and Humphrey 108,893.

West Virginia Delegates Not Tied

Although the victory meant a lot to Kennedy—it should be a powerful argument to advance against the theory that no Catholic can be elected as an American president—it didn't guarantee him a single extra delegate to the party's convention in July.

This was strictly a popularity contest. The West Virginia delegates who will cast 25 votes at the Democratic convention in July are free to do as they please. In some other states, convention delegates are bound to vote on the first ballot at the convention for the primary winner.

New Blast by Louw Widens Split in PMs

LONDON (CP)—Eric Louw, South Africa's external affairs minister, took the offensive against critics of his country's racial policies Tuesday night and virtually ended any hope that the Commonwealth prime ministers can heal the open split over apartheid before their conference ends on Friday.

Speaking outside the conference chamber at a dinner of London's South Africa Club, Louw complained that "leftist elements" are fomenting an anti-South African campaign in Britain and said relations between the two countries will be "seriously disturbed" if it continues unchecked.

THIRD OUTBURST

Louw's speech, an all-out defence of his government's program of racial segregation, was the third occasion since the conference opened a week ago that a delegate emerged from closed-door sessions to deal with the South African issue.

Louw himself at a press conference last Wednesday defended his country's record. Malayan Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman countered the following day with a bitter attack on the South African, and an announcement of his refusal to participate in further apartheid discussions.

Their speeches, together with Ghana's curt withdrawal of an invitation to Louw to visit the country, effectively nullified the peace-making efforts of such other prime ministers as Britain's Harold Macmillan, Canada's John Diefenbaker and Australia's Robert Menzies.

Dollar Continues Drop at New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The value of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. currency today fell to the lowest level in more than a year.

Foreign exchange dealers quoted it at $1.02 13/16 in U.S. currency, down 13/64 from Tuesday's close of $1.03 1/64.

2 RED SPIES CAUGHT BY SWISS

BERN, Switzerland (Reuters)—Two officials of the Soviet embassy in Bern have been ordered "to leave Switzerland immediately" for spying, the Swiss government announced today.

The announcement said the two Russians were arrested in Zurich Tuesday night as they were talking to an agent in the pay of the Soviet espionage service.

They were understood to have received from the agent plans of Swiss army radar establishments and information on the organization of the Swiss army, as well as plans on rocket bases in West Germany.

It is understood the agent also was arrested through the announcement did not specify this.

Wengren Railroad 'Easy Job'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The engineer who supervised surveying of the Wenner-Gren railway route in northern British Columbia says the route is feasible and without excessive grades and the railway can be built without excessive capital or maintenance costs.

"After nearly three years of adverse and questionable comments—political, economical and strategic—the construction of the railway is about to begin," H. H. Minshall told the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. Tuesday night.

With his associate H. L. Smith, Mr. Minshall detailed the full survey of the route.

They said the survey entailed 1,500 miles of aerial reconnaissance and 340,000 acres of land were mapped by aerial photography.

PEEKED AT Y.T.

"With our last survey camp in B.C. on the shore of Gladys Lake, just 15 miles from the B.C.-Yukon border," Mr. Minshall said, "we took a peek into the Yukon as far as Fort Selkirk, to satisfy ourselves that it was quite feasible to run the proposed line through Whitehorse to the route proposed by the U.S. Army in 1942."

He said a major crossing of the Skeena River would be "surprisingly simple" and for economic reasons it might be necessary for the railway to cross and re-cross the Nass River.

The railway proposal was part of an agreement Wenner-Gren interests reached with the B.C. government about three years ago to open northern B.C. to development. Under the agreement, construction is to start by the end of June. A company named Pacific Northern Railway has been set up to undertake the proposed project.

(In Victoria today the registrar of companies office said the Pacific Northern Railway Company had not yet been incorporated under the B.C. Companies Act.)

Sentence Commuted

OTTAWA (UPI)—The federal cabinet today spared the life of John Harford, 19, who was convicted two months ago of the murder of a Trans-Canada Air Lines employee. He will serve a life sentence.

Fishboat Overdue

VANCOUVER (CP)—Ships and ports along the B.C. coast have been asked to watch for the 32-foot trawler, Chrisandra overdue on a fishing trip to Powell River with Ross Garrow of Vancouver aboard.

CATHEDRAL HILL DEVELOPMENT?

$300,000 Sale Price Indicated for Theatre

The Royal Theatre at Broughton and Blanshard, valued at more than $1,000,000, has been offered for sale to the city for use as a civic auditorium.

Austin Curtis, chairman of the city's auditorium committee, disclosed today that the Players of Canada has offered to sell the 48-year-old edifice used for all of Greater Victoria's major cultural activities.

Sale price was not disclosed, but it was indicated at the committee meeting the building might sell for less than half its value. That would place the sale price between $300,000 and $400,000.

Floods Isolate Ontario Families

Times News Services
TIMMINS, Ont.—A wall of water and logs today bore down toward the almost-deserted, flood-menaced community of Mount Joy in northern Ontario.

Officials said the Ontario department of lands and forests told them the Muskies Lake dam had burst. Only about 100 of the township's normal 1,900 population were left.

The Muskies dam, which holds back water from a long chain of lakes is 42 miles up stream from Timmins on the Mattagami River.

Officials said the new flood crest could hit Mount Joy late tonight or early Thursday.

Red Cross officials declared the region a disaster area. Food vouchers worth $5,000 were distributed to the flood victims who set up temporary homes in halls in Timmins.

Floodwaters cut off 500 families in the west end of Timmins. These families, mostly on farms, will have to depend on boats for their supplies during the next few days.

CANADA'S ROLE IN DEFENCE

By TOM GOULD
OTTAWA—Fortunately for the Canadian taxpayer, the U.S. is not saddled with military secrecy for secrecy's sake. The military and the administration in Washington have to justify every dollar of expenditure.

For several years now, the House subcommittee on military appropriations has been casting a jaundiced eye at the Bomarc program. The missile was called a billion dollar boondoggle, a flop, a failure. And a few weeks ago, the subcommittee finally gave it the axe.

No one in Washington believes it will ever be restored. Defence Minister Peakres, who for some reason fell overboard with praise of the Bomarc as the months went by, thinks the subcommittee will be overruled by the U.S. Senate. He stands alone on this one.

Breach of Pact

He has made it very clear Canada will consider cancellation of the Bomarc program as the breach of a sacred agreement between the two nations. And until the Bomarc slash finally wends its way through the hazardous process of the U.S. Congress, he has decided to keep spending money on the holes the Canadian defence department is digging at Mont Laurier, Quebec, and North Bay, Ont.

Mr. Peakres claims he is waiting to be "informed," what Washington intends doing. Not "consulted," you will notice, just informed.

The ironical touch to the current mess is that the same U.S. subcommittee recommended that some of the money destined for the Bomarc be spent on more interceptors, the F-106, one of the aircraft inferior to the Arrow!

Pitiful Effort

Canada's contribution is pitiful. A few squadrons of aircraft even Mr. Peakres concedes are too old for modern warfare (although he claims they are still "airworthy," for what that is worth), some radar stations, a small defence research establishment.

On the U.S. side of the border, too far south to provide any protection to Canadians, a variety of interceptors, many of them sub-sonic, point de-

Still Incensed Over Spy Plan

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev said today the spy plane incident had changed his estimate of President Eisenhower and they will discuss in Paris whether the American leader should come to Moscow as planned.

REDS REFUSE

(At his Washington press conference this morning held before the Khrushchev interview, President Eisenhower said there had been no change in his plans to visit Russia. Last week, however, he had dropped the casual remark; "if I visit Russia" as if to indicate that there was some doubt.)

Khrushchev made his statement as he stood on a wicker chair talking to correspondents amidst the wreckage of the plane he says was shot down May 1, east of the Urals.

One of the reporters asked him point blank: "Do you want Eisenhower to come here in view of the plane incident?"

"What do you want me to say?" Khrushchev replied. "You get in to my place here and reply for me."

EXCHANGE VIEWS

An American correspondent then asked whether, in view of his changed attitude toward Eisenhower, he would want him to postpone the visit to Russia, scheduled for June 10.

"I would not like to comment," the premier said. "We can exchange views with the president on that in Paris."

He announced he is leaving Saturday for the summit conference in Paris opening May 16.

Khrushchev was asked: "Does this spy plane incident change your estimate of Eisenhower?"

"It does, of course," he replied. "I was not aware of the fact that the plan was not the caprice of an individual officer. . . . I was horrified to learn that the president had approved the plan of these flights."

Khrushchev said the flight had been approved by Allen Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, under the direction of the President.

"Don't expect me after that to say what nice people these are," Khrushchev also said on whether he wanted Eisenhower to come to Moscow: "It is difficult to reply. You know my friendly attitude toward the President. My hopes have not been justified. I am a human being. I have feelings."

"The people of Russia are open-hearted. Can I urge the Russian people to greet him as a dear guest? The Russian people would say I was mad to welcome a man who sends spy planes over here like that."

DIFFICULT TO REPLY

He recalled that at the 1955 Geneva summit conference he proposed an "open skies" policy which would permit nations to make flights which might reveal any preparations for attack.

Russia rejected this proposal in 1955.

"I shall bring it up again at Paris," Eisenhower said.

(In Moscow today, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko again rejected the open skies proposal, which he charged was made in the interests of American military intelligence.)

Eisenhower said he still is hopeful that the Paris summit meeting starting Monday will accomplish some good and help ease international tensions.

REFERS TO PHOTOS

Asked to elaborate on doubts about the U-2 incident, Eisenhower referred to photographs which the Russians said showed the wreckage of the plane.

The U.S. government believes, he said, that the pictures are not photographs of the U-2 aircraft.

Eisenhower was reminded that he has said many times he would not go to a summit conference under a Soviet threat or ultimatum. A reporter noted that the Soviet government on Tuesday threatened to retaliate against the United States if it continued to send spy planes over Russia.

Asked whether he regarded that as a threat in the category he had mentioned, Eisenhower replied that he did not.

MARKET SUMMARY

No Interest In Dealings At Toronto

The Toronto stock market found little interest among investors today as industrial continued to mark time.

General Motors was down among industrials, off 1 1/2

at 41 1/2. Imperial Bank, Steel

Company of Canada and West

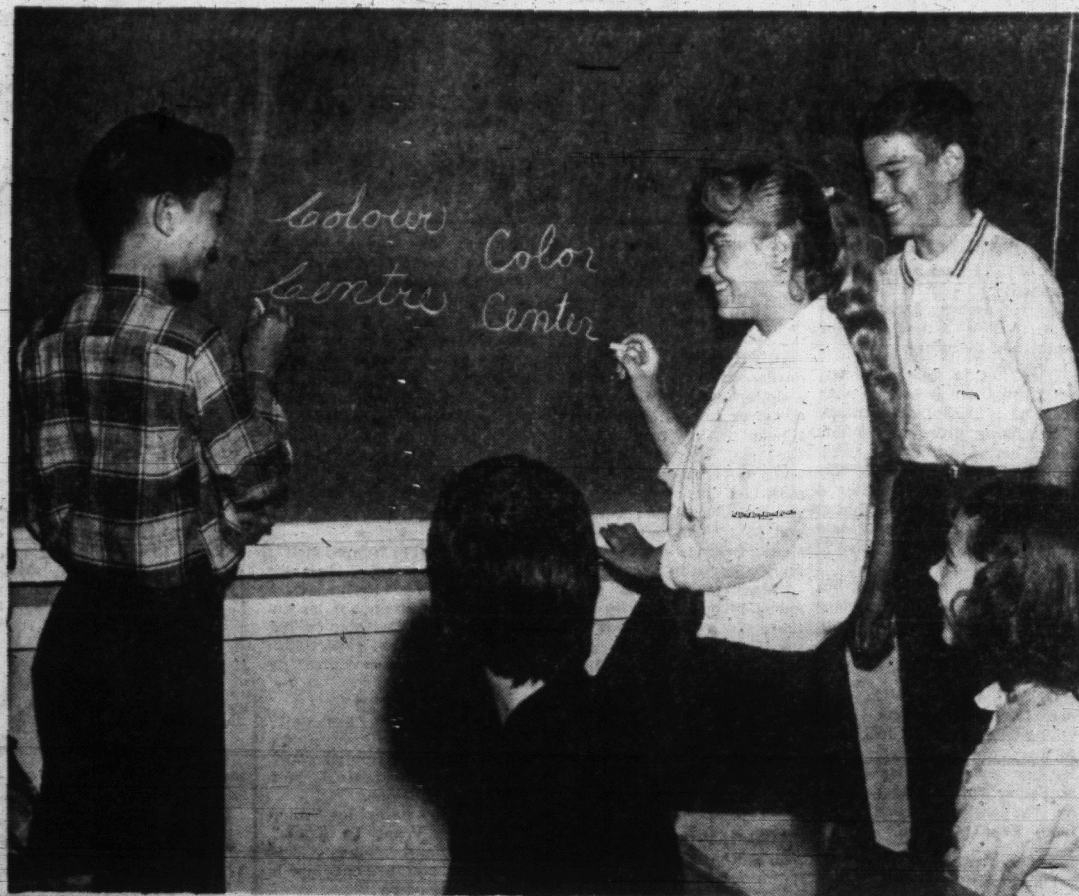

A and B were all off.

Among the winners were

Canadian Celanese, Canadian

ment.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The 89 (Kinsmen) Air Cadet Squadron trophy for outstanding NCO was presented to Pte. Sgt. Dennis W. Gornall at the recent annual inspection.

He was also awarded the Hutton trophy for proficiency in pre-flight training.

Other winners were: LAC Peter Montague, Kentson trophy for most proficient cadet; LAC Stewart King, Kinsmen trophy for most improved cadet; and Cpl. Mary McKenzle, the Mothers' Auxiliary trophy for outstanding girl cadet.

A charge against a Victoria man for keeping a noisy dog was dismissed in city police court today when it was discovered the complainant left town immediately after making the complaint and is not expected back until the end of June.

Gerald F. Hewlett had pleaded not guilty to the charge and when the Crown's chief witness was not available for the trial, prosecutor T. P. O'Grady said he would call no evidence.

The 100-piece Clover Park High School Band and Orchestra from Tacoma, Wash., will give a concert Thursday at 8 p.m. at Oak Bay High School.

The concert is sponsored by the Oak Bay High School band and tickets may be purchased from any member of that group or at the door.

A meeting of the Newfoundland Club will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Orange Hall, Courtney Street.

The Sons of Norway will hold their annual May 17 celebrations May 14 at 8 p.m. in Norway House.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Oak Bay Kiwanis: 6:15 p.m., Oak Bay Beach Hotel. J. H. Leonard, B.C. Telephone Co., will speak on "Telephone Magic and Tomorrow."

Evening Optimist Club: 6:30 p.m., Olde England Inn. Reports from members.

Victoria Rotary Club: Noon, Empress Hotel. Jack Humphrey will speak concerning car insurance.

McVan Isle Kinsmen Club: 7 p.m., Colonial Inn. Election night.

Y's Men's Club: 6:30 p.m., club rooms.

Schoolgirl Angela Jones, 13, of 2144 Quimper, is in "fairly good" condition at Jubilee Hospital today with head injuries received when thrown to the street by a "ricocheting car" on Monterey at 3:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Oak Bay police said the girl walked south along the west sidewalk near Woodlawn when a car driven by James W. Powell, 18, of 638 Monterey, went out of control, plunged over the sidewalk, snapped off a power pole and swerved toward the girl.

A meeting of the CPR Veterans' Association will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. in the Crystal Garden.

Tillikum-Hampton PTA will meet Monday at Tillikum School.

A new seven-room addition to Mount Douglas High School was scheduled to be opened this afternoon by trustee Walter Thomson.

Included on the agenda was an open house to allow parents and friends to see the new home economics, industrial arts, and science rooms.

The visitors were also scheduled to join more than 3,000 students in the auditorium for assembly and entertainment by the school band and choir.

Army headquarters has announced that Major H. W. King of Victoria will be appointed General Staff Officer at Headquarters, New Brunswick Area, in September.

An officer of the Regiment of Canadian Guards, Major King is at present serving with the United Nations Truce Supervisory Organization in Palestine.

A report on the recent Canadian Highway Safety Conference in Vancouver will be given at a dinner meeting of the Greater Victoria and District Safety Council May 18 at Holyrood House.

The report will be given by chairman of the Victoria group's traffic section, W. G. Fergie, motor vehicles superintendent George Lindsay will speak on "Education in Traffic Safety," and a film on car racing in the Alps will be shown.

Japanese Judge Sees How It's Done Here

Forty-six schoolboys and girls from Eureka, Calif., are visiting Victoria today in the course of a unique travelling study period.

All Grade Six students, among their studies this year is that of Canada.

So the school principal, Ella Quarnheim, devised the idea of actually visiting the country of their studies.

The pupils themselves, by holding concerts, collecting pop bottles, raised $1,054 toward the cost of a seven-day bus-and-airplane trip through the Pacific Northwest, culminating here.

$55 EACH

Each of the 46 was also assessed $55 to cover the all-inclusive tour.

In addition to touring the city and nearby beauty spots, the Eureka students sat in with their counterparts at Sir James Douglas School today.

Thursday the visitors will hear the real facts about the Royal Canadian Mounted Police from an "E" Division officer.

CAMERA "FIENDS"

Almost all of them, including Miss Quarnheim and the three other teachers accompanying them, are camera-equipped and, like other tourists, concentrating on gardens and waterfront scenes.

While here, they are staying at the Empress Hotel. They leave Friday by TCA for Seattle, where they will embark in two chartered buses for the return trip down the coast.

Acting Mayor Turns Sod For New Carpark

Work started at 8 a.m. today on T. Eaton Co.'s $750,000 parking garage at Broughton and Gordon.

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell officiated at "sod-turning" ceremonies to mark commencement of the four-storey project.

Scheduled for completion by Oct. 1, the 2,000-car "garage" job provides a boost for local construction trades. Except for a key supervisor, the project is being built by local workers. Dominion Construction Company is the general contractor.

Missing Yacht In Harbor Here; Man Arrested

A man arrested by Victoria detectives was to be picked up later today by Vancouver police in connection with a $150 worthless cheque and a missing $19,000 cabin cruiser.

Police here found the 42-foot Arrawac II moored at Causeway floats Tuesday after an air search failed to locate the craft missing since late Sunday from Clay's Wharf, Vancouver, where a man presented a $150 cheque to rent the boat three days.

Harold Clay said a man passed himself off as a Toronto business man when renting the vessel, which left with a man and a woman aboard.

SUNSET CEREMONY

First sunset and retreat ceremony of the year will be held at the Legislative Buildings this evening.

The rites will be performed by Victoria Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Force Cadets.

A charter member of the women's auxiliary to the cerebral palsy clinic here, which raised $3,600 last year for the Cerebral Palsy Association of B.C., is Mrs. E. V. Darling, 1140 Woodstock.

In addition to belonging to the 38-member auxiliary and helping with observance of Cerebral Palsy Week, which ends Saturday, she works one morning each week at the clinic in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

BOUQUET FOR MRS. VANIER AT CITY HALL

Solarium Picks Flower Girl

A 10-year-old former Queen Alexandra Solarium patient will take part in the civic welcome for Governor-General and Mrs. George Vanier Tuesday outside City Hall.

Linda Ball, 896 Falaise, daughter of city fireman Ed Ball, will present a bouquet to Mrs. Vanier following addresses of welcome in ceremonies starting at 11 a.m.

She was chosen for the honor by Solarium officials at the request of officials in charge of civic arrangements for the two-day visit.

The Governor-General's

party will arrive for the short ceremony after being welcomed officially by Premier W. A. C. Bennett outside the Legislative Buildings and inspecting a guard-of-honor.

BAND TO PLAY

The 50-piece Mount View High School band under Howard Denike will play for half an hour before the ceremony, due to take place on a special platform outside City Hall.

Mayor Percy Scurrell will present an illuminated address

and welcome the Governor-General.

Major-General Vanier is expected to establish a precedent for royal and vice-regal visitors at receptions of this kind by replying to the address after which Linda will present the bouquet to Mrs. Vanier.

Following presentation of the reeves of surrounding municipalities and their wives, the vice-regal party will sign the civic distinguished-visitors book.

Archbishop Hits S. Africa, U.S.

'Die Together If We Can't Live Together'

Archbishop Harold Sexton today criticized the United States for permitting an aerial reconnaissance over Russian territory on the eve of the summit conference in Paris, opening next Monday.

He accused the South African government of "maintaining the white man's supremacy by harsh and cruel methods" and announced that May 31 will be set aside as a Day of Prayer for South Africa.

In his charge to the 58th session of the Anglican Diocesan Synod of British Columbia meeting here, the archbishop also criticized "certain Christian bodies" for admitting women into the church ministry.

The archbishop's outspoken comments on world affairs came at the start of the Diocesan Synod (the parliament of the Anglican Church) which is being attended by 65 clergy and some 200 laymen from all parts of Vancouver Island and adjacent islands.

'UNFORTUNATE'

He said it was "most unfortunate" that on the eve of the summit conference "an aircraft belonging to the United States" should have been engaged in a reconnaissance over Russian territory.

"President Eisenhower, and others in positions of authority, are reported to have engaged in prayer on Sunday last for the success of the summit conference."

"While they are to be commended for so doing, some of them apparently need to realize that the aim of our lives must agree with the prayers of our lips."

DYING TOGETHER

"There is only one alternative to the solution of the problem of living together today, and that is dying together."

"It would therefore seem to be a question of mere common sense to say that, while clinging tenaciously to our Christian way of life, we have to live at peace and in good will with people who represent other ideologies."

"However deep may be the divisions between peoples and nations today, collective existence — the possibility of living together in peace — is the intensely urgent problem."

'UNLOCK RIDDLE'

"And, if the Christian faith is the truth, then we Christians have a key to unlock the riddle of history, if we would wake up while we have time."

"Our actions must fit the content of our faith."

Of the South African government's policy of apartheid against its colored peoples, the archbishop said:

"It is an appalling situation and we may well blush at the knowledge that it has taken place within the British Commonwealth. . . . The country would seem to be nothing more than a police state at the present time."

The archbishop said that of the world's three billion people, at least two billion are colored.

'SHEER MADNESS'

"Remembering that, it is sheer madness to provoke any form of racial conflict, and the South African government is seemingly making a terrible rod for its own back by its apartheid policy. . . ."

The Anglican Church in South Africa, he said, has taken "a definite and valiant stand."

"The Bishop of Johannesburg, being in imminent danger of arrest, had been persuaded to leave the country, but it was hoped that the Archbishop of Capetown would be free to continue in his responsible post and to continue his vigorous campaign against racial intolerance and persecution."

"In my opinion the leaders of our church in South Africa are at this moment writing one of the most splendid annals in the history of the church."

He said the Union of South Africa would commemorate its jubilee on May 31. The South African government wanted to make this a great national festival, but the Church had set its face against turning this into a jollification.

PRAY MAY 31

"We should be immensely strengthened if this day were set apart as a Day of Prayer by the whole Anglican communion," the archbishop told the Synod, "and I venture to ask you to summon your people to pray for South Africa on May 31."

The archbishop's criticism of women in the ministry came after he had spoken of growing unity between Christian groups, particularly between Anglicans and Methodists in England. He said:

"The prospects of Christian unity have not been improved by the readiness of certain Christian bodies to admit women into the ministry, and you are all aware, of course, of the controversy which has arisen in Sweden in the matter."

TWO ISLAND STUDENTS

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What exactly does automation mean? B.R.

A. The term is applied to machinery which takes the place of manpower. . . . machines rather than people.

Q. Can you tell me the names of the three pagan gods the letters IHS, used in churches, stand for? The "I" is for Isis. H.K.

A. IHS is actually a corruption of the Greek letters forming the first three letters of the word "Jesus".

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve common sense or legal problems. Not will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

It's Mother's Way To Show Gratitude

When asked why she gives her time to the clinic, she said she has four normal boys "for which I am very thankful, and helping those less fortunate is my way of showing my gratitude."

"It would be easy to say 'I'm too busy' but I feel I must help," she said. "I come home from the clinic feeling very humble when I see the spirit of the children who try and try again cheerfully."

ESTIMATE CHANGED

K. Still Mad Over Spy Plan

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev said today the spy plane incident had changed his estimate of President Eisenhower and they will discuss in Paris whether the American leader should come to Moscow as planned.

(At his Washington press conference this morning held before the Khrushchev interview, President Eisenhower said there had been no change in his plans to visit Russia. Last week, however, he had dropped the casual remark; "If I visit Russia" as if to indicate that there was some doubt.)

Khrushchev made his statement as he stood on a wicker chair talking to correspondents amidst the wreckage of the plane he says was shot down May 1, east of the Urals.

One of the reporters asked him point blank: "Do you want Eisenhower to come here in view of the plane incident?"

"What do you want me to say?" Khrushchev replied. "You get in to my place here and reply for me."

An American correspondent then asked whether, in view of his changed attitude toward Eisenhower, he would want him to postpone the visit to Russia, scheduled for June 10.

"I would not like to comment," the premier said. "We can exchange views with the president on that in Paris."

He announced he is leaving Saturday for the summit conference in Paris opening May 16.

Khrushchev was asked: "Does this spy plane incident change your estimate of Eisenhower?"

"It does, of course," he replied.

"I was not aware of the fact that the plan was not the caprice of an individual officer... I was horrified to learn that the president had approved the plan of these flights."

Khrushchev said the flight had been approved by Allen Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, under the direction of the President.

"Don't expect me after that to say what nice people these are."

Khrushchev also said on whether he wanted Eisenhower to come to Moscow:

"It is difficult to reply. You know my friendly attitude toward the President. My hopes have not been justified. I am a human being. I have feelings."

"The people of Russia are open-hearted. Can I urge the Russian people to greet him as a dear guest? The Russian people would say I was mad to welcome a man who sends spy planes over here like that."

HUMPHREY WITHDRAWS

Decisive Win For Kennedy

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Senator John F. Kennedy took a giant stride today toward the Democratic nomination for president of the United States with a smashing victory in the West Virginia primary election.

The Massachusetts contender not only rolled over Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota but also knocked him out of the presidential race completely.

At 2:08 a.m. Humphrey conceded. Minutes later he issued a statement in which he said: "I am no longer a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination."

Kennedy flew back from Washington early today and jubilantly said:

"West Virginia has given me a major boost toward the Democratic nomination for president."

Kennedy, a Roman Catholic running in a predominantly Protestant state, thanked the voters.

'Vote on Issue, Not Prejudice'

"I had no doubt," he said, "that you would cast your vote on the basis of the issues and not on any religious prejudice."

Kennedy jumped ahead at the start and steadily increased his margin.

With 2,059 of the 2,750 polls reporting, Kennedy had 173,113 votes and Humphrey 108,893.

The Kennedy victory wasn't entirely unexpected, but the size of it certainly was.

Camp followers of both candidates had made detailed charts of West Virginia, showing where Catholics are most numerous, where anti-Catholic sentiment possibly could be expected, where labor union voting is strong. In the end the charts proved largely meaningless.

With 54 of West Virginia's 55 counties showing reports, Kennedy was ahead in 45 and Humphrey, a Congregationalist, was leading in only nine.

West Virginia Delegates Not Tied

Although the victory meant a lot to Kennedy—it should be a powerful argument to advance against the theory that no Catholic can be elected as an American president—it didn't guarantee him a single extra delegate to the party's convention in July.

This was strictly a popularity contest. The West Virginia delegates who will cast 25 votes at the Democratic convention in July are free to do as they please. In some other states, convention delegates are bound to vote on the first ballot at the convention for the primary winner.

The West Virginia delegates are expected to scatter their votes among Kennedy, Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri and Adlai Stevenson.

Kennedy also sported the highest number of votes in Tuesday's Nebraska presidential primary. But the lustre of his showing there was dimmed by a good deal by the write-in total for Nixon on the Republican ballot.

REDS REFUSE

Ike Backs 'Open Sky' Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)

President Eisenhower said today he will renew at next week's summit meeting his proposal that Russia and the United States open their skies to flights by inspection planes.

Defending secret U.S. spy flights over the Soviet Union, the President said this country must not have another Pearl Harbor.

Eisenhower read to a press conference a statement on the furore over Russia's claim to have downed an American U-2 spy plane from 60,000 feet May 1. He expressed doubt the plane was in fact shot down in the fashion the Soviets said it was.

He recalled that at the 1955 Geneva summit conference he proposed an "open skies" policy which would permit nations to make flights which might reveal any preparations for attack.

PROPOSAL REJECTED

Russia rejected this proposal in 1955.

"I shall bring it up again at Paris," Eisenhower said.

(In Moscow today, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko again rejected the open skies proposal, which he charged was made in the interests of American military intelligence.)

Eisenhower said he still is hopeful that the Paris summit meeting starting Monday will accomplish some good and help ease international tensions.

Asked to elaborate on doubts about the U-2 incident, Eisenhower referred to photographs which the Russians said showed the wreckage of the plane.

The U.S. government believes, he said, that the pictures are not photographs of the U-2 aircraft.

Eisenhower was reminded that he has said many times he would not go to a summit conference under a Soviet threat or ultimatum. A reporter noted that the Soviet government on Tuesday threatened to retaliate against the United States if it continued to send spy planes over Russia.

Asked whether he regarded that as a threat in the category he had mentioned, Eisenhower replied that he did not.

2 RED SPIES CAUGHT BY SWISS

BERN, Switzerland (Reuters)—Two officials of the Soviet embassy in Bern have been ordered "to leave Switzerland immediately" for spying, the Swiss government announced today.

The announcement said the two Russians were arrested in Zurich Tuesday night as they were talking to an agent in the play of the Soviet espionage service.

They were understood to have received from the agent plans of Swiss army radar establishments and information on the organization of the Swiss army, as well as plans on rocket bases in West Germany.

It is understood the agent also was arrested through the announcement did not specify this.

CANADA'S ROLE IN DEFENCE

By TOM GOULD
OTTAWA—Fortunately for the Canadian taxpayer, the U.S. is not saddled with military secrecy for secrecy's sake. The military and the administration in Washington have to justify every dollar of expenditure.

For several years now, the House subcommittee on military appropriations has been casting a jaundiced eye at the Bomarc program. The missile was called a billion dollar boondoggle, a flop, a failure. And a few weeks ago, the subcommittee finally gave it the axe.

No one in Washington believes it will ever be restored. Defence Minister Pearkes, who for some reason fell overboard with praise of the Bomarc as the months went by, thinks the subcommittee will be overruled by the U.S. Senate. He stands alone on this one.

Breach of Pact

He has made it very clear Canada will consider cancellation of the Bomarc program as the breach of a sacred agreement between the two nations. And until the Bomarc slash finally winds its way through the hazardous process of the U.S. Congress, he has decided to keep spending money on the holes the Canadian defence department is digging at Mont Laurier, Quebec, and North Bay, Ont.

Mr. Pearkes claims he is waiting to be "informed," what Washington intends doing. Not "consulted," you will notice, just informed.

The ironical touch to the current mess is that the same U.S. subcommittee recommended that some of the money destined for the Bomarc be spent on more interceptors, the F-106, one of the aircraft inferior to the Arrow!

While Mr. Pearkes waits to be convinced, it is interesting to peer into the future. With the Bomarc gone, what is left of joint continental air defence?

Pitiful Effort

Canada's contribution is pitiful. A few squadrons of aircraft even Mr. Pearkes concedes are too-old for modern warfare (although he claims they are still "airworthy," for what that is worth) some radar stations, a small defence research establishment.

On the U.S. side of the border, too far south to provide any protection to Canadians, a variety of interceptors, many of them sub-sonic, "point defence anti-aircraft missiles incapable of shooting down a manned bomber far enough from the target to prevent widespread damage.

It is inconceivable that Canada can remain in this lopsided defence arrangement known as NORAD, and retain any measure of national pride.

It is not defending Canada, it is unwelcome at the political level, and a continuation, with Canada playing the role of a partner, would inevitably result in a succession of Bomarc blunders.

And, surely, both Canada and the U.S. must ultimately realize that the only defence for North America lies in the retaliatory force.

There are those who say North America must have a "balanced" defence, capable of $300,000 Sale Price Indicated

The Royal Theatre at Broughton and Blanshard, valued at more than $1,000,000, has been offered for sale to the city for use as a civic auditorium.

Austin Curtis, chairman of the city's auditorium committee, disclosed today that Famous Players of Canada has offered to sell the 48-year-old edifice used for all of Greater Victoria's major cultural activities.

Sale price was not disclosed, but it was indicated at the committee meeting the building might sell for less than half its value.

That would place the sale price between $300,000 and $400,000.

(Ker & Stephenson Ltd., realtors, agents for the company, said no price has been fixed as yet.)

The sale offer was disclosed by Mr. Curtis as the committee sat down to discuss plans for the construction of a $2,000,000 civic auditorium.

STUDY PROPOSAL

It decided to see if the building would be satisfactory as a civic auditorium before making any recommendations to city council.

Constructed in 1912-13 as the Victoria Opera House, the Royal Theatre was described by Roderick Clack, city architect, in a report as in "exceptionally good condition."

"An analysis of the architectural drawings shows a building of Class A construction and a general inspection of the premises indicates that it has been maintained throughout," he said.

He noted that the company has spent $150,000 in the past 12 years on the interior of the building and renovations.

With regard to live productions, he said, the theatre has complete facilities.

These included one of the widest stages on the Pacific Coast.

Dollar Continues Drop at New York

NEW YORK (AP)—The value of the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. currency today fell to the lowest level in more than a year.

Foreign exchange dealers quoted it at $1.02 13/16 in U.S. currency, down 13/64 from Tuesday's close of $1.03 1/64.

Wengren Railroad 'Easy Job'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The engineer who supervised surveying of the Wenner-Gren railway route in northern British Columbia says the route is feasible and without excessive grades and the railway can be built without excessive capital or maintenance costs.

"After nearly three years of adverse and questionable comments—political, economical and strategical—the construction of the railway is about to begin," H. H. Minshall told the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. Tuesday night.

DETAILS ROUTE

With his associate H. L. Smith, Mr. Minshall detailed the full survey of the route.

They said the survey entailed 1,500 miles of aerial reconnaissance and 340,000 acres of land were mapped by aerial photography.

PEEKED AT Y.T.

"With our last survey camp in B.C. on the shore of Gladys Lake, just 15 miles from the B.C.-Yukon border," Mr. Minshall said, "we took a peek into the Yukon as far as Fort Selkirk, to satisfy ourselves that it was quite feasible to run the proposed line through Whitehorse to join the route proposed by the U.S. Army in 1942."

He said a major crossing of the Skeena River would be "surprisingly simple" and for economic reasons it might be necessary for the railway to cross and re-cross the Nass River.

The railway proposal was part of an agreement Wenner-Gren interests reached with the B.C. government about

Floods Isolate Ontario Families

Times News Services

TIMMINS, Ont.—A wall of water and logs today bore down toward the almost-deserted, flood-menaced community of Mount Joy in northern Ontario.

Officials said the Ontario department of lands and forests told them the Muskisenda Lake dam had burst. Only about 100 of the township's normal 1,900 population were left.

The Muskisenda dam, which holds back water from a long chain of lakes is 42 miles up stream from Timmins on the Mattagami River.

Officials said the new flood crest could hit Mount Joy late tonight or early Thursday.

Red Cross officials declared the region a disaster area. Food vouchers worth $5,000 were distributed to the flood victims who set up temporary homes in halls in Timmins.

Floodwaters cut off 500 families in the west end of Timmins. These families, mostly on farms, will have to depend on boats for their supplies during the next few days.

New Blast by Louw Widens Split in PMs

LONDON (CP)—Eric Louw, South Africa's external affairs minister, took the offensive against critics of his country's racial policies Tuesday night and virtually ended any hope that the Commonwealth prime ministers can heal their open split over apartheid before their conference ends on Friday.

Speaking outside the conference chamber at a dinner of London's South Africa Club, Louw complained that "leftist elements" are fomenting an anti-South African campaign in Britain and said relations between the two countries will be "seriously disturbed" if it continues unchecked.

THIRD OUTBURST

Louw's speech, an all-out defence of his government's program of racial segregation, was the third occasion since the conference opened a week ago that a delegate emerged from closed-door sessions to deal with the South African issue.

Louw himself at a press conference last Wednesday defended his country's record. Malayan Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman countered the following day with a bitter attack on the South African and an announcement of his refusal to participate in further apartheid discussions.

Their speeches, together with Ghana's curt withdrawal of an invitation to Louw to visit the country, effectively nullified the peace-making efforts of such other prime ministers as Britain's Harold Macmillan, Canada's John Diefenbaker and Australia's Robert Menzies.

three years ago to open northern B.C. to development. Under the agreement, construction is to start by the end of June. A company named Pacific Northern Railway has been set-up to undertake the proposed project.

(In Victoria today the registrar of companies office said the Pacific Northern Railway Company had not yet been incorporated under the B.C. Companies Act.)

'HE WOULD BE DESTROYED INSTANTLY'

DUNCAN (CP)—Sir Philip, a leading medical general of RAF medical services, said here Tuesday night authority on jet flying, said it would be "utterly impossible" for a pilot to bail out of a supersonic U-2 plane, with out using his ejection equipment.

"It is utterly impossible for a pilot to bail out without tirement here, said Russian Premier Khrushchev's story of would be destroyed instantly shooting down the U.S. plane by over Russian territory May 1 sure."

SAFE WAS BLOWN AFTER ALL

Blast Ripped Paper Money, Bent Coins

NANAIMO—A supermarket safe, believed to hold live explosive following an attempt to open it Sunday night, was found Tuesday afternoon to have been blown after all.

A Vancouver expert opened the safe, which had been under police guard since Monday morning, and found the explosion had damaged part of the $1,200 in currency in the safe.

Force of the blast had bent silver coins. Paper money was torn and money bags ripped apart.

It was originally felt that a blasting cap on the safe, in Townsite Super-Valu, had failed to detonate and that the charge was unexploded.

NANAIMO (CP)—A $150,000 loan made by city council here in 1912 has cost taxpayers $375,000 in interest charges. "We often overlook the tax load that interest requires when considering borrowing," Ald. Jack Parker told city council in discussing the loan.

The 50-year borrowing will be cleared in 1962.

LADYSMITH—Ladysmith Fish and Game Association will not stage a coho derby this year.

Decision to discontinue the popular annual event was made by club members because of a lack of public support and difficulty in getting an organizing committee.

Don McKay was named chairman of a committee to organize a "safari" to Butte Lake with June 12 as the suggested date. Idea is to arrange a car caravan to visit the fishing area over a weekend.

CHEMUNUS—The Rotary Club will stage a giant public dance in the Community Centre Hall in June with all proceeds to go to the fund for construction of a children's ward at Chemunus Hospital.

Special attraction at the dance will be the orchestra of Dal Richards from Vancouver.

The club will invest $1,000 of its bursary fund in short-term Dominion of Canada bonds.

SOOKE—Promotion of Sooke RCMP Constable Patrick Eastman to the rank of corporal was announced today.

The new rank, effective from May 1, follows the revised establishment of Sooke detachment, a one-man jurisdiction extended to include Port Renfrew.

LAKE COWICHAN—Joe Bohemier has been elected president of the Lake Cowichan Kinsmen Club.

Other officers are: Vice-president, Dr. J. Morrow; secretary, Bill Cross; treasurer, Pat Riley; registrar, Malkit Singh; directors, Dr. D. Sharp, Alan Vance and Ross Scott.

He added that should the pilot survive this impossibility, he couldn't last more than 45 seconds without the oxygen equipment attached to the ejection seat.

"The frantic cold—it would be about 50 degrees below zero—is just another factor that makes survival impossible."

Sir Philip said ejection seats are designed to get the pilot out of the craft and down to an altitude of 30,000 feet before the parachute opens.

Reports from Moscow indicate Francis Powers, 30, pilot of the U-2 shot down May 1, was flying at about 60,000 feet when the plane was destroyed. "If he (Powers) ran into engine trouble he could come down to 4,000 or 5,000 feet, stall his craft, roll over and bail out."

"But this is a different matter than being hit with a missile at supersonic speeds," said Sir Philip.

"Critics of the U.S. government are most unjust. I don't doubt that Russian planes have been flying over Canada and we would be foolish not to know what is happening inside Russia."

"We have a long way to go before we get to the bottom of this incident."

Logging Tax Upheld On Appeal

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's Logging Tax Act has been upheld by the provincial Court of Appeal after being declared unconstitutional last September by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Five appeal judges found Monday that the statute does not conflict with the federal provincial tax-sharing agreement.

But they agreed with Mr. Justice Manson's ruling that it does not apply to income received by Royal D. Alworth, Jr., of Duluth, Minn., from the sale of timber from property he owns at Nanossee Bay on Vancouver Island.

Alworth contended he was not liable because he is not engaged in actual logging operations.

His holdings comprise about 25,000 acres of a tract now owned by his family, originally purchased by his father after the First World War.

The government claimed he was liable for a levy under the tax act on payments he received from MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., which did the logging on his property.

Volkswagen makes sense for you—Here's why!

⊗ Volkswagen's engine is air-cooled, an astonishing advantage when you think about it. No water to boil over in summer. No water to freeze in winter. Owners say the VW engine seems to go on forever with so little effort, fuel or attention. Friction and stress are so low, in fact, that a VW can cruise at 70 all day long without any over-exertion.

⊗ Volkswagen is great fun to drive; agile and highly responsive, with one of the smoothest stick shifts in the business. It's 4 feet shorter than conventional cars, yet holds 4 adults, with a surprising amount of room.

⊗ Volkswagen's suspension is different; all-independent by torsion bars. It gives you uncanny control over rough roads (no bump-bump-bump). And the new anti-sway bar eliminates swing and sway on curves. The engine in the back gives the Volkswagen superb traction. In mud, sand, ice, snow, where other cars skid, you go.

⊗ Obviously, this is a classic design that is not to be changed just for the sake of change. The Volkswagen you buy today will remain in style long after other cars have come and gone.

⊗ One of the things designed right into the Volkswagen is easy, low-cost maintenance. The car is so well conceived that its engine can be removed and replaced in only 90 minutes.

⊗ And best of all: the price of a Volkswagen is much lower than you would expect. No wonder, then, Volkswagen is the largest selling import in North America—by far.
